8-DAY DRIVE FOR VOTES ON IN DISTRICT

10 Congressional Candidates Start 'Whirlwind' Primary Election Campaign.

CHECK PETITION NAMES

Election Officials Seek to Determine Validity of 1,000 Signatures.

With only eight days remaining before the special primary Feb. 6, campaigning was begun in earnest today by a record field of candidates seeking the vacant 17th district congressional seat.

The lineup of entries which was completed Saturday includes seven Democrats and three Republicans who will battle for the nominations to the position left vacant by the death of William A. Ashbrook, Johnstown Democrat.

With the congressional aspirants engaged in a "whirlwind" campaign, Richland county board of election officials today set out to check their petitions for validity of signatures.

A total of 100 registered voters' signatures is required on the petitions. Board officials began their check with election boards in the other five counties in the district.

It is expected however, that the entire group will be qualified since all have a greater number than the required signatures necessary.

Board officials warned voters that the deadline for registering has been set for 6:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Candidates entered in the Democratic "free-for-all" are Frank Cave, Mansfield; Dr. Ben A. Arneson, Ohio Wesleyan university professor; George J. McDonald, assistant Licking county prosecutor; Ben West, Mt. Vernon, coal dealer; Byron B. Ashbrook, Johnstown banker, and nephew of the late congressman; William Haas, Delaware, former assistant attorney general, and Bruch B. Ferenbaugh, Danville attorney.

Lined up for the Republican nomination are J. Harry McGregor, West Lafayette, majority leader of the Ohio house of representatives, who has the endorsement of district party leaders, Col. Oliver H. Dockery, Newark, retired army officer, and Walter B. Woodward, Belleville Townsendite, Republican nominee in 1938, who was defeated by Ashbrook.

Special election in the district will be held Feb. 27 to select a representative for the term ending Dec. 31. Other counties besides Richland are Licking, Delaware, Knox, Ashland, and Coshocton.

Meanwhile it was announced in

LOOTS 2 HOMES

Burglar Uses Key to Enter Residences, Gets $37.

Police today sought a burglar who used a pass key to enter two homes in the same area over the week-end and carried off loot valued at $37.

Returning home shortly before midnight Saturday, Nick Frisch, 188 Rowland avenue, called police when he found the house ransacked and a watch valued at $20 and $7.75 in cash missing. Officers said entrance was gained by using a pass key in the rear door.

The same method was used to enter the home of L. M. Campbell, 67 Dawson avenue, last night while the family was at church and $9.30 in change taken.

Police said they were of the belief that the same burglar ransacked both residences.

Mrs. Fred Burgener, 136 Grace street, called police this morning when she discovered the kitchen window of her home open and $10 in change missing.

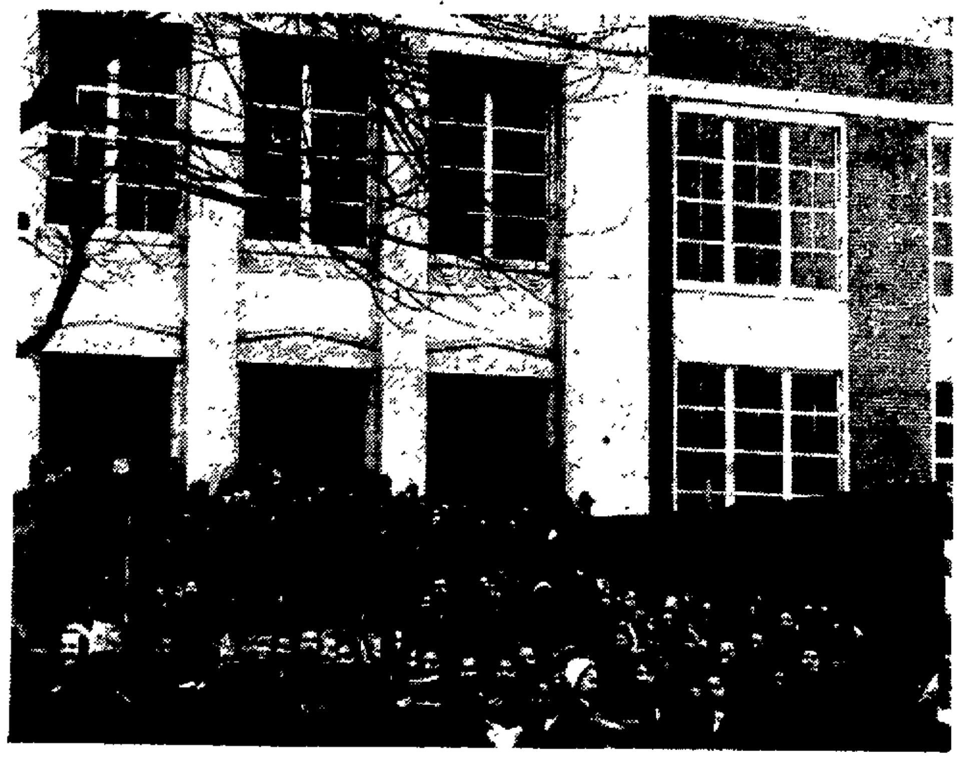
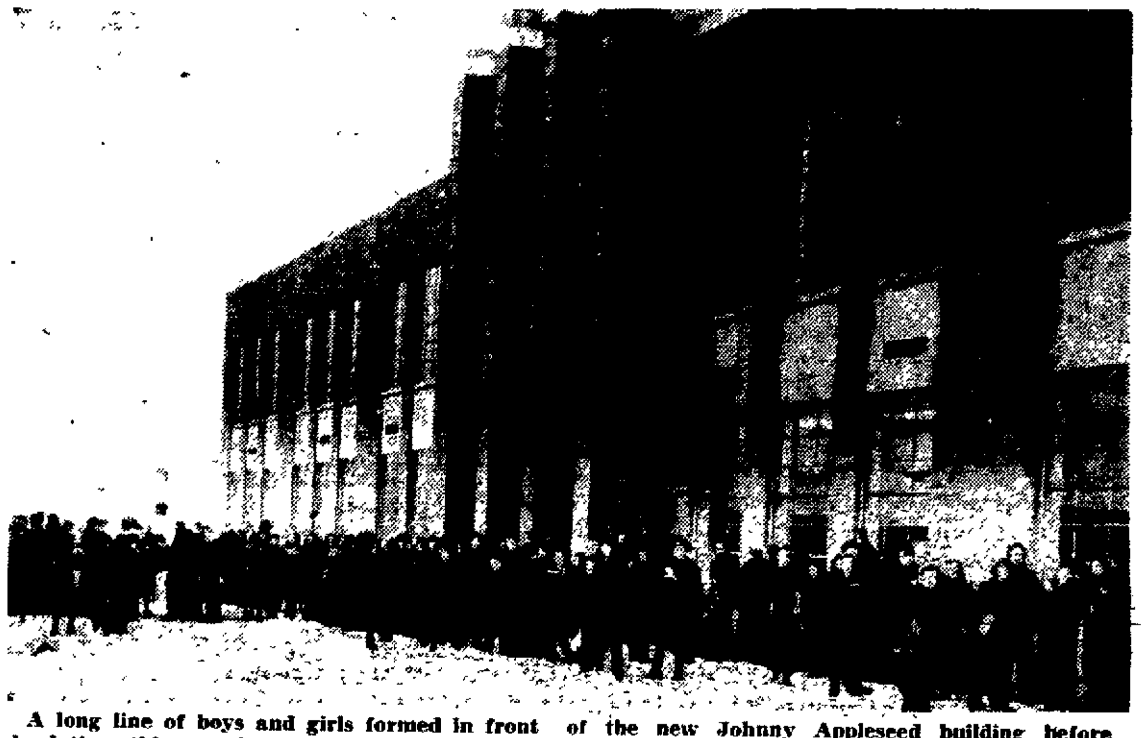
Pupils Thrilled as New Schools Open Doors First Time

As the doors of Johnny Appleseed school were thrown open for the first time, hundreds of eager youngsters thronged into the corridors to get their first look at the $450,000 school. From the smiles on their faces they apparently don't mind going to school when it's in a palatial new building.



Happy junior high pupils waiting to get into the new John Simpson building on West Fourth street. Scores of pupils were at school early this morning. Improvised banisters were built at the sides of the main steps into the building to protect the pupils.



A long line of boys and girls formed in front of the new Johnny Appleseed building before school time this morning. A part of the line was snapped by the News-Journal photographer.

Miss Dorotha Shaffer, teacher at the Johnny Appleseed building, right, directs three "stranded" pupils to their room. They all get a hearty laugh out of it. Pupils were virtually lost in the big buildings and had to be shown to their rooms.

Long Wait Worth It, Pupils Decide As New Schools Open

"I've waited a long time to see this," H. W. Arlin, president of the Mansfield board of education, commented this morning as he watched more than 600 junior high school pupils start their first day in the new Johnny Appleseed school on Cline avenue.

So had 1,460 pupils waited a long time to get into the city's two new $450,000 buildings, for most of the pupils have attended classes in makeshift school rooms for the past year.

Arlin's comment included the new John Simpson building, which serves the north half of the city. Some 800 pupils thronged into it for the first time today.

Because there is still work to do in the halls, gymnasium, auditorium, and basement of the John Simpson building, pupils were dismissed at 10 a. m. after they were assigned to rooms and schedules were set up. They will start to school tomorrow on a full schedule. In the Johnny Appleseed building, which is nearer completion, pupils attended school all day today.

Several men were employed Sunday in an attempt to have both of the new structures ready for occupancy, but there was too much to be done at the John Simpson school.

Until the home economics and industrial arts rooms are completed in the two schools, pupils will continue those classes in the garage building on Bowman street that they have used for a year, Supt. W. L. Miller said.

Auditoriums will not be ready for occupancy for at least a month, but the gymnasium and cafeterias will soon be completed.

Supt. Miller was well pleased with the opening of the new buildings today. "Everything went along smoothly and I'm glad to see the pupils get into them," he said.

"These two buildings are the culmination of a dream of having modern school plants with ample room for pupils," he added.

The junior high building program has been one of the objectives of Miller since he came to Mansfield and it was he who first proposed a building survey in 1938 to show how inadequate the junior facilities were. Both new structures are designed to accommodate 1,000 pupils, 500 more than the combined junior high enrollment.

170 DIE IN FIRE

100 Others Injured When Train Derails, Burns in Japan.

TOKYO—(AP)—Between 170 and 200 factory workers were burned to death today when a two-car suburban train was derailed and burst into flames on the outskirts of Osaka. About 100 others were injured.

The chief of the Osaka Railway bureau said an investigation had failed to show the cause of the accident. Earlier reports had said the train rammed a string of gasoline tank cars.

UPHOLDS LEVY

Supreme Court Rules on N. Y. Sales Tax Controversy.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Supreme court ruled today that New York City's 2 per cent sales tax, as applied to products brought into the city from outside the state, does not infringe the commerce clause of the Federal constitution.

The litigation was returned, however, to the state courts for further consideration as to whether the state taxing act applied to these transactions.

In another tax decision, the high court reversed an opinion delivered four years ago and sustained legislation taxing bank reposits of Kentuckians kept outside the state at a rate five times greater than that assessed on deposits within the state.

HIGH FINANCE

City Gets 2 Cents as Share of State Income Taxes.

FENNIMORE, Wis.—(AP)—M. J. Weaver, president of the Fennimore city council, received a first class letter from the state treasury department bearing a three cent stamp.

Inside was a check for two cents Fennimore's share of state income taxes collected during the last quarter of 1939.

SLUGGED, KILLED

Cleveland Bartender, 65, Fatally Injured in Robbery.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—George W. Blase, 65, bartender in an East 99th street cafe, was slugged and killed today by a robber who escaped with about $50, Police Sergt. Edward J. Sadler said.

Buck shot, sometimes used in making blackjacks, was found on the floor.

FINNISH LOANS TOUCH OFF ROW

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A sharp attack on proposed legislation for a loan to Finland and plans for a congressional survey of American foreign policy in the orient touched off a bitter row in the senate today.

Senator Clark (D.) Missouri, led the attack against the legislation for a Finnish loan. Abandoning foreign policy as grounds for his opposition, Clark said it would be "unfair to the American people" for such a loan to be made.

"Here we are trying to save money in this country," he said, "and we are faced with the proposition of taking American taxpayers' money, to loan to Finland. It isn't fair to the people at all, and I intend to fight it to the best of my ability."

The Finnish loan proposal will

COLDEST WINTER

Snow Drifts To House Tops As Great Britain Shivers.

LONDON—(INS)—Railway service throughout Britain was paralyzed today by the coldest wave to sweep the country since the winter of 1815, when Napoleon met defeat at Waterloo.

Every train in England was late and scores of services were cancelled. At some points in Kent, snow drifts were piled up nearly to the house tops.

Mercury Dips To 7 Below As Cold Wave Takes 'Parting Shot'

The cold wave gave the Mansfield area a parting thrust today as the mercury dropped to seven degrees below zero before starting a rise to 26 above at noon.

The extreme cold is due to leave today, the weatherman said, and temperatures are expected to reach the high 20's. Light snow was forecast for tonight and Tuesday and it will be slightly colder again Tuesday, he predicted.

While it didn't seem that cold, a freak cold spell early Sunday sent the mercury down to 14 below zero, Otto Sprunger, co-operative government weather observer, reported. It was the third lowest reading of the winter. Today marked the 12th day in January that the temperature fell to zero or below.

Meanwhile Florida was figuring its losses in the millions today as the result of the most devastating cold wave in years which plummeted the mercury to below freezing at Miami. Thousands of youngsters in that southern Florida resort city saw their first naturally formed ice. Coils in solar water heaters froze and burst. The solar units obtain heat from the sun's rays.

Vegetable and fruit crop losses from the freezing weather mounted to millions of dollars. Damage in Dade county (Miami) alone was estimated at nearly $10,000,000. At DeLand, in central Florida, it was 10 above zero and orange trees were frozen. The state had at least six deaths from the cold.

Ohio was the most frigid state in the nation today, however, as the mercury rose rapidly in the plains and Rocky mountain sections. It was 32 above zero at Denver, 21 above at Kansas City, and eight above at Minneapolis.

With Mansfield's seven below, lowest reported in Ohio this morning, Cambridge and Perry and Hocking counties had six below and other cities reported zero.

WINS DIVORCE

Actress Gets Decree in Suit Naming 'Scarlet O'Hara.'

LONDON—(U.P.)—Actress Jill Esmond was granted a divorce from Laurence Olivier, actor, on the grounds of adultery today. Vivien Leigh, star of the motion picture, "Gone With the Wind," was named corespondent.

Olivier did not defend the action. Custody of their child was granted to Miss Esmond by Justice Langdon.

Counsel for Miss Esmond said that the marriage had been happy for six years but that in 1937 Olivier told his wife that he was in love with Miss Leigh.

The suit of Herbert Leigh Holman, a barrister, for divorce from Miss Leigh, will be heard in the current term of the divorce court. Holman has named Olivier as corespondent in his suit.

Duchesses of Kent and Windsor Head List of World's 'Best-Dressed' Women

Queen Elizabeth Given 10th Place Rating By Paris Stylists.

(By United Press)

PARIS—The 10 best-dressed women today, Paris dress makers voted today are led by the Duchesses of Kent and Windsor and include, for the first time, Queen Elizabeth.

Women, the dress makers decided, in the annual United Press poll, are better dressed this season than at any time since Cleopatria, despite the war, and all at a cost of more than $1,000,000 each. The war and jewelry, of course increased the cost of distinctive dressing.

The dress makers voted these women the 10 best dressed:

1. The Duchesses of Kent and Windsor tied.

3. Mme. Antenor Patino, the South American "tin princess," wife of the heir to one of the five richest men in the world, who is the daughter of the Duke and Duchess De Durcal.

4. Mrs. Doris Duke Cromwell, "richest girl in the world," who entered the list on the basis of the wardrobe she ordered by Atlantic Clipper when her husband became United States minister to Canada.

5. Begum Aga Kahn.

6. Mrs. Gilbert Miller, wife of the New York theatrical producer.

7. Baronne Eugene De Rothschild.

8. Mrs. Harrison Williams of New York.

9. Countess Barbara Hutton Reventlow, heiress to the "five-and-dime" Woolworth fortune.

10. Queen Elizabeth.

Injuries Cost Life of Aged Mansfielder

Man, 72, Hurt In Crash Near Fremont, One of 13 Dead In State.

Injured critically Friday morning in an auto accident near Fremont, Reuben Ernsberger, 72, of 42 Elizabeth street, died early Sunday morning in a Fremont hospital, one of 13 Ohioans who died over the week-end as the result of traffic accidents, fires and an airplane crash.

In the Mansfield vicinity, only three persons were injured in five minor accidents, reports to authorities said.

Mr. Ernsberger was injured internally, and was the second person to die as the result of the Friday morning accident. Mrs. Louise Witker, 59, of Pemberville, O., an occupant of the other car, died in the Fremont hospital Saturday morning.

Ernsberger's wife, Grace, suffered minor injuries and is expected to be returned home Tuesday. Mrs. Witker's husband, driver of the second car, also was injured seriously. The Ernsbergers were en route to Holland, Mich., to attend a funeral when the accident occurred.

Native of County.

Born June 22, 1867, in Monroe township, Mr. Ernsberger spent his entire life in Richland county, and had been employed at the Humphryes Manufacturing company for a number of years.

Surviving besides his wife, Grace, are seven children, Roy, Curtis, James W. Reuben, Mrs. Hazel Edwards, Mrs. R. Swartz and Mrs. Evelyn Jones, all of Mansfield; a brother, Christian of Butler; two sisters, Mrs. Maggie Tackleberry, West Olive, Mich., and Mrs. Mary Kiner of Butler, and eight grandchildren.

The body will be removed to the home where it will remain until Wednesday noon, when it will be taken to the Finefrock funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m., with Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

In an accident early Saturday evening, Erwin Davis, 308 East Second street, was bruised and his sled demolished when he coasted in to a truck driven by Richard Metcalf, 2 Dunbilt court, on Cleveland avenue, police reported.

Clarence Erving, 19, R. D. 3, Plymouth, suffered a broken left arm when the farm tractor he was driving struck a guard rail, throwing him from the machine, at 4 p.

SHIPS ATTACKED

German Bombers Reported in Widespread Sea Raids.

LONDON—(AP)—German bombing planes were reported to have attacked British ships along 400 miles of Britain's east coast today in the most widespread raids on shipping yet attempted in the war.

Attacks on vessels were reported from the mouth of the river Tay in the north to the Kentish coast in the south. They continued from shortly after 9 a. m. to midday.

Anti-aircraft guns burst into action in the Tyneside area, and air raid warnings were sounded in a number of northeast coast districts.

British fighters were credited with driving off the bombers.

OLDEST VET DIES

Captain Peters, 92, Believed Oldest Serving In World War.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Capt. Richard Peters, 92, believed to have been the oldest soldier in the allied armies during the World war, died early today of injuries suffered two weeks ago when dancing at a ladies' day entertainment of the Knickerbocker club.

Capt. Peters, descendant of Judge Richard Peters who was head of Gen. Washington's board of war during the revolution, was a native of Protumna, Va.

PAYS WITH LIFE

Pittsburgh Man Dies in Chair for Killing Policeman.

BELLEFONTE, Pa.—(AP)—Benjamin Ginyard, 27, of Pittsburgh, was executed early today for killing Patrolman Edward Conway during a store robbery in Pittsburgh.

As he was strapped to the electric chair, Ginyard prayed aloud, "Jesus save me." John Conway, brother of the slain patrolman, was among the witnesses.

RENEW DRIVE DESPITE LOSS OF 5,000 MEN

Unfavorable Weather Lifts, Soviets Start Bombing Again Near Helsinki.

DENY REDS ARE TRAPPED

Finnish Reports Declare New Commander Orders General Advance.

(By International News Service)

HELSINKI—Despite losses estimated at 5,000 killed and 15,000 wounded on the battlefront north of Lake Ladoga, Soviet Russian troops were reported renewing their offensive today along all roads leading into Finland's interior from the frontier.

Reports of the new assaults on the eastern frontier coincided with air raid warnings in Helsinki, indicating the Russians were resuming the aerial offensive which has been held to a minimum recently by unfavorable weather.

These advices also quashed previous reports that the Russians north of Lake Ladoga were completely surrounded and staging a disorderly retreat.

Finnish military dispatches indicated that the new commander-in-chief of the Russian forces arrayed against Finland, Marshal Semion Mikhailvitch Budenny, ordered renewed attacks on every front and the moving up of Soviet reinforcements and supplies as frequently as possible.

In addition, there were reports that the Russians were attempting, "not without success," to send reinforcements to Russian units which have dug in on the Salla front, far to the north.

Prior to today's disclosures of the new Soviet attacks, which may develop into a general offensive on all ground fronts as well as in the air, Finnish quarters had indicated that the Red army drive north of Lake Ladoga had been halted after eight days of fighting and that the Russian attempt to outflank the left wing of the Mannerheim line had been smashed.

Reds Abandon Dead.

It was known, however, that the Russians had suffered heavy losses and at some points had been forced to abandon their dead and large quanties of war materials which were captured by the Finns.

Meanwhile, it was reported that a Soviet warplane, carrying a high Red army officer, was forced to land and was captured behind the Finnish lines.

The officer was reported to have informed his captors that he was en route to the Kitelae pocket north of Lake Ladoga to

Salesman Ties Up Wife, Kills Their Two Children, Self

MIDDLEFIELD, Conn.—(INS)—Despondent over financial difficulties, a salesman for a Waterbury firm today killed his two small daughters and himself and destroyed his home by fire after carefully insuring the safety of his wife.

The victims were Alden G. Schlosser, 35, a ginger ale salesman and his daughters Alice, 5, and Jeannette, 3.

Armed with a small bore rifle, Schlosser early this morning trussed up his wife with a clothes-line, taped her mouth to prevent her screaming, then carried her outside the couple's home at nearly Lake Beseck. His last words to her were:

"When you hear the first shot, it will be the oldest child."

Schlosser re-entered the house and severad the telephone wires. Outside, shivering in the cold, his wife saw Schlosser going from room to room, setting the small cottage afire. Then she heard three shots in rapid succession. The first two snuffing out the lives of her children, the last marking the suicide of her husband.

Aroused by the flames shooting skyward, neighbors found Mrs. Schlosser struggling helplessly in her bonds.

GIRL AT THE FRONT + + + + +

ROB EDEN
(Copyright, 1940)

CHAPTER XI

IT was only two-thirty when Claire left "Z. Y." in room 567 and went back to her own room, and she could scarcely believe that so much could have happened in a short half hour.

Most important was the definite assurance from Noel Yorke, or "Z. Y." as he insisted upon being known in his secret dealings with her, that Bill Cameron was alive. True, he was in danger—terrible danger—but he was alive! The shock of learning that after hearing just a short time before that he was dead had been a terrific one and Claire found herself so nervously exhausted that she sank down on her bed without removing her clothes.

It was eight o'clock when she awakened, the light still burning in her room. She looked curiously at the key which Yorke had given her, the key she was to use as her means of reaching Cameron if she should get through to Berlin. She had gone to sleep with it clutched in her hand, and it was lying on top of the covers.

It was an ordinary key, so far as she could make out, an old-fashioned door key. Attached to it, however, was a small brass tag and on it was impressed a Nazi swastika. She placed the key carefully in her purse, and after a brisk shower, felt rested and relaxed from the nervous strain under which she had been laboring ever since Cameron vanished so mysteriously.

* * *

After breakfast, she forced herself to go through the mockery of attending the funeral services in the tiny chapel for the man who was being buried under the name of William Amherst Cameron. Welles Sanford was there and so was Danny Brooks. Claire sat dry-eyed, looking straight before her, as the rector read the brief services. She scarcely heard the words he spoke, so busy was her mind with the task she had to perform if she were to see her employer again.

When the services were over, she returned to her hotel with Danny. The correspondent was very sympathetic and seemed greatly affected himself by the death of his good friend. Claire was on the point once, as they drove along, of suddenly blurting out the truth—that the man over whom the services had been held was not Bill Cameron—that it was some one else, some unknown upon whom a gang of spies had planted Cameron's clothes, his papers, his watch and ring, expecting to deceive his friends into believing that the American secret diplomat was dead.

* * *

But fortunately she remembered Yorke's warning in time, and bit her lips to hold back the words that came surging for utterance. To tell Danny that much would entail too much explanation She would have to tell him what she was going to do—the desperate plan Yorke had concocted and in which she was to take such an important part.

"You mustn't tell any one a word or you'll risk losing everything," he had warned when she left him.

So she told Danny nothing, and declined his invitation to dinner that night.

"I just don't feel up to it, Danny," she explained. "I think I'll go away for a day or two—somewhere outside of Paris, where I can rest."

"Good idea," he approved. "Let me know when you get back. Maybe there's something I may be able to do to help you."

She thanked him and said goodbye at the hotel.

Instead of getting off at her own floor, on impulse she rode up to the fifth floor. Slowly she walked down the corridor, looking for room 567. The door was open as she reached it, and a chambermaid was bustling in and out busy with her cleaning

At the end of the corridor, as Claire turned, she saw a woman suddenly enter the room As she arrived opposite the open door again, she glanced in and saw the woman rummaging in a drawer of the dresser. In the mirror above it, she saw the reflection of the woman's features—she was pretty, very pretty.

It was a face that was easy to remember, and Claire had no difficulty recognizing the woman later in the dining room when, as she was having a late luncheon, she saw her leave a table on the far side of the room and walk slowly toward the doorway.

She called her waiter over and asked if he knew the woman.

"Why, of course, Mademoiselle," he answered, quickly. "She is Madame Dacier. Her husband is English, I believe."

"Has she been here before?"

"Yes, indeed. They have been here a month or more."

Claire thanked him, and pondered the mystery of the Daciers for the rest of the time she was eating her lunch.

* * *

Was Noel Yorke masquerading under the name of Dacier? Was he married to this very pretty young woman? If not, who were they? They must be identified in some way with Noel or he could not have used their room for the rendezvous in the early hours of the morning.

The more she thought about it, the more confused she became, and finally she gave it up Someday, perhaps, she would know the answers to her questions. Someday, perhaps, when this war was over she would meet Noel Yorke naturally, not in dark taxicabs or darkened rooms, and would hear from his own lips the explanation of many things.

She spent the rest of the afternoon in her room. One letter she wrote to her aunt, who lived in Connecticut, her only living relative. In it she explained in detail what she intended to do. Of her plans to risk a flight into Germany She confessed to her aunt that she was doing it not so much because she felt it was her duty as she had told Yorke—but because of her love for Bill Cameron. It was the first time she had definitely committed herself by putting it in writing and somehow it seemed the natural thing for her to do.

When she had finished the letter, she sealed it in an envelope with her aunt's address on the outside Then she wrote another note—this one to Welles Sanford. In it she explained that she was leaving Paris for a few days on a secret mission If he did not hear from her within ten days, he was to dispatch the enclosed letter to her aunt. Otherwise, he was to put it in a safe place so that it would not possibly find its way into the mails or fall into other hands.

To Sanford, she gave no other explanation. She knew that Yorke did not want him to know now of her trip, of what she planned to do. If he did later, he would tell Sanford himself.

When her letter writing was completed, she carefully laid out the clothes she was going to wear, and with her manicure scissors removed all labels and other means of identifications, as Yorke had instructed her. Then she changed to the plainest suit she owned, a woolen suit with a short skirt It would be warm and serviceable.

In one pocket she slipped an extra pair of stockings, but otherwise she carried no baggage whatever. In her handbag she placed several handkerchiefs and her toothbrush, and made sure the key Yorke handed her was safely in one of the pockets. Except for a compact and lipstick, the bag was empty.

Her passport and money she placed in a large envelope and deposited it at the desk when she left.

"I am going away for a few days with friends," she told the clerk "I am leaving my baggage in my room I may send for it, but if I don't, I'll be back within a week"

* * *

When she left the hotel at four o'clock, the only thing she carried with her besides her large purse was her gas mask, slung over her shoulder. That had become as much a part of her regular equipment as her shoes and stockings.

At a few minutes before five, she arrived at the Chamonix field and inquired for Captain Le Fevre. When he came up to her, she introduced herself as Claire Dutton and he imediately led her to a plane standing on the runway. Its propeller was turning, and two mechanics were standing by. Apparently, it was ready to take to the air.

"Miss Dutton," Captain Le Fevre said as they stopped beside the plane, "may I introduce your pilot to you—Captain Martin. Captain Martin, Miss Dutton."

Claire's mouth opened in astonishment as the aviator raised the goggles from his eyes, pushing them up on his flying helmet, and smiled down at her.

"Hop in, Claire," he said.

The pilot was Rene Martin.

WAR-TORN WORLD

WOODLAND, Calif. — (AP) — This is a warring world today, but in number of conflicts it does not compare with 1864. A copy of a local newspaper for that year, found by Delmus Fenton as he was working on a house, lists 17 different wars going on.

LIGHTNING-FAST in the press-box! Why, Bill Corum's been known to file 3,000 words of sizzling copy during a single sports event. But no speed for him in his smoking—slower-burning Camels are Bill Corum's cigarette. He likes that extra mildness, coolness, and flavor.

SURE I WORK FAST— BUT I LIKE MY SMOKING SLOW.
MILDER, COOLER CAMELS ARE CHAMPS WITH ME

Here's Bill at work in the quiet of his office. Bill...typewriter...books...pictures...and Camels—slow-burning Camels. "I find them milder and cooler—and thriftier," he says. And, being a Camel fan of many years' standing, he ought to know.

BILL CORUM'S sports news isn't just printed...it's sprinted...at lightning speed from press-box to press and the Five-Star Final. But when the candid camera catches Bill in his office with a cigarette—well, "No speed for me in my smoking," he says. His own common sense and smoking experience tell him what scientists have confirmed in their research laboratories—that "slow-burning cigarettes are extra mild, extra cool, fragrant, and flavorful."

Cigarettes that burn fast just naturally burn hot. And nothing so surely wrecks the delicate elements of flavor and fragrance in a cigarette as excess heat. You don't want a hot, flat, uncomfortable smoke.

The delightful mildness, coolness, fragrance, and flavor of Camels are explained by this important finding—Camels proved to be the slowest-burning cigarette of the sixteen largest-selling brands tested! (The panel at right explains the test.)

Informally Speaking...

January 29, 1940.

Lucy, dear:

THE DANCE was the thing here in our town Saturday night, with the A.A.U.W. formal in the Mansfield-Leland ball room, and the 134th field artillery entertaining at the American Legion home with officers of Battery D in charge . . . A good time was had by all, so it's too bad that you couldn't have been here for the festivities too, Lucy.

Marianne

* * * * *

Red and white predominated in decorations of the Legion home for the field artillery ball, and many of the dresses of the officers' ladies complimented the colors of the regiment. . . . Mrs. Coleman Todd combined these two colors in her gown, which was of white taffeta with narrow scarlet binding on the old-fashioned bodice. . . . The bolero of Mrs. R. J. Nichols' white crepe gown was beaded in crystals. . . . And one of the loveliest gowns at the affair was worn by Mrs. H. P. Snyder—it was of peach satin with back panels of velvet in a sherry shade with rhinestone clips at the shoulders.

* * * * *

OH YES, and you missed the wedding of Vivian Miller and Bill Mosey too. . . . It was a beautiful and impressive ceremony—and their friends were so intent upon showering Vivian and Bill with rice, that they even followed them into a local photographer's studio to accomplish it!

* * * * *

This is an important week for some Mansfield students in the south—Thursday, Friday and Saturday mark the days of dancing at Washington and Lee university in Lexington, Va. . . . Jim McConnell, who's a student there, will have Mary Jane Crump of Memphis, Tenn. as his guest, and his sister, Elsie, will leave her studies at Randolph-Macon in Lynchburg, Va. to go down for the dances as a guest of Bob Russell of Bridgeport, Conn. . . . Probably the biggest thrill of all is that Elsie and Bob will lead the junior figure at the Junior Prom on Thursday night. . . . There will be a fancy-dress ball on Friday night, when the setting will typify the first Kentucky derby, held in the 1800's. . . . Kay Kyser's band is playing for all the dances, and Saturday afternoon he will conduct his famous College of Musical Knowledge. . . . Incidentally, Lucy, Elsie is captain of the freshman hocky team at Randolph-Macon.

* * * * *

THURSDAY will be a day of great importance for Mr. and Mrs. W. Dale Uhlich too, as they're leaving then for Ft. Sill, Okla., where Mr. Uhlich (who's in Battery D here) will be in the National Guard training camp for about three and a half months. . . . The Uhlich's children, Carol Lynn and Bobby, will accompany them.

* * * * *

Did you know that Harry G. Brown is no longer a resident of our city, Lucy? He's accepted a position with the War Department and will divide his future time between Washington, D.C. and Detroit, Mich. Mr. Brown, you recall, has been affiliated with the Westinghouse here for several years, and he made his home with Mr. and Mrs. E R. Endly on Sturges avenue.

* * * * *

And still we have news of those lucky folks who can vacation in Florida this winter. . . . Mrs. John Kunz has gone down with her two sisters, Mrs. A. P. Schmidt and Mrs. Ferd Messenger of Fremont. . . They will be gone for about six weeks—visiting in Orlando and Palm Beach.

* * * * *

All of which seems to wind up the news for today, Lucy—I'll have some more for you next week, and in the meantime, don't forget to write.

Lovingly,

Marianne

Mansfield Week-end Society Brightened With Dances

Mansfield went formal Saturday night and danced in two downtown ballrooms. Shown in the picture at the right are some of the officers and their wives of Battery D of the 134th Field Artillery. The picture was made at the American Legion home while the officers' ball was in progress. The two men standing are, left, Capt. Grover. E. Swoyer, regimental chaplain, and Capt. Coleman B. Todd. Seated from left to right are Capt. R. J. Nichols, Mrs. Swoyer, Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Robert Springer, Mrs. Todd, and Lieut. Robert Springer. Some of the feminine guests were snapped retouching their make-up at the ball. They are shown in the lower left photo. Reading from left to right are Mrs. H. P. Snyder, Mrs. R. R. Seymour and Mrs. W. D. Uhlich, all wives of officers of the Battery. The picture at the lower right was made at the Mansfield-Leland hotel during the annual dance of the American Association of University Women. Those shown, left to right, are Miss Marjorie Rhoads, Miss Wilma Snider, Mrs. Gordon Colby, dance chairman, and Mrs. Charles Kuntz, social chairman of the association.

FORMAL DANCES HELD IN DOWN TOWN AREA

Military Dash Added By Battery D Members, Guests; University Women Entertain With Function At Leland Hotel.

THE down town area of Mansfield was filled with women clad in evening gowns, and men in dinner jackets and military uniforms Saturday night when two organizations entertained with formal dances. Gold braid on blue and red uniforms, formal dresses in every conceivable color and decorations in red and white combined to make a colorful scene at the American Legion ballroom when 60 couples attended the social given by the officers of Battery D. 134th Field Artillery.

For the first time in many years the officers' ball was held outside Columbus, and it brought to Mansfield artillery regimental officers and their ladies from all over Ohio.

At the formal affair officers appeared in both types of dress uniforms—the dark blue with dashes of scarlet and gold braid, and the khaki uniforms with regulation Sam Browne belts.

Among the guests was Lieutenant Colonel Helge Ekedahl, who until his advancement to regimental executive officer was a Mansfield resident. He was formerly identified with Battery D but now resides in London, and has offices in Columbus.

In his party were Major and Mrs Harley Johnson and Major and Mrs. Mady Campbell of Columbus.

A buffet supper was served at midnight, and following the regimental meeting which was held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel during the afternoon a cocktail party was held Col. Ekendahl presided at the meeting.

This affair, the first officers ball held in Mansfield since the first years of the World war, was planned by the following officers of Battery D: Capt Coleman Todd, Capt. R. J. Nichols, in charge of the battery and ball chairman, Capt. Grover E. Swoyer. Capt. H. E. Critchfield and Lieutenants Robert Springer, W. D. Uhlich, H. P. Snyder and R. R. Seymour.

Members and guests of the American Association of University Women danced at the third annual formal dance held in the ballroom of the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Music was supplied by Ira Metcalf and his orchestra for the 80 couples.

During the evening two prizes were awarded. They were won by the Misses Wilma Snider and Margaret McBride.

Arrangements for the affair were in charge of Mrs. Gordon Colby assisted by Miss Frances E. Gensley, Miss Marianne Springer, Mrs. Nicholas White, Mrs. Homer Swift, Mrs. Harry Knox, Mrs. Walter Mickey, Miss Helen McCleary, Mrs. Jack Berro, Mrs. L. C. Baumgardner and Miss Mary Ward.

Among the parties given in conjunction with the affair were predance parties at the home of Miss Olive Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kuntz, and a breakfast party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Baumgardner.

* * *

GIVE PARTY.

Miss Vera Shull and Mrs. Avalie Snider gave a surprise party for Mrs. Maggie McCaskey Saturday evening in honor of her 81st birthday. The affair was held at 161 North Mulberry street with 50 persons in attendance. Luncheon was served at the close of the social evening, and the honoree received many gifts from the guests.

Alpha Pi Sigma Dance Set for Saturday

In the words of the famous band leader, Kay Kyser, "Come on, chillun, Le's dance." And Saturday night a lot of young Mansfielders will be doing just that when the Alpha Pi Sigma sorority has its annual St. Valentine dance at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

There will be music from 10 p. m. to 2 a. m. with Ira Metcalf and his orchestra holding forth in the ballroom. Arrangements for the mid-winter affair are in charge of Mrs. C. Richard Martin, Miss Phyllis Brown, Miss Marie Kalbfleisch and Mrs. Ralph Andregg.

5 BEAUTIFUL CEREAL DISHES

MISS VIVIAN MILLER, BRIDE OF MR. MOSEY

Informal Ceremony Read At First Presbyterian Church Early Yesterday Afternoon; Reception Attended By Friends.

THE altar of the First Presbyterian church was banked with palms and decorated with two beauty baskets of gladioli and chrysanthemums yesterday for the wedding of Miss Vivian Wilhelmenia Miller and William Wood Mosey at 12:30 o'clock.

Nuptial music was furnished by Mrs. A. L. Twitchell, and her organ numbers included the "Venetian Love Song," "Romance" by Rubenstein, and Liszt's "Liebestraum." During the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. David N. Roller, Mrs. Twitchell played "I Love You Truly" by Carrie Jacobs Bond.

The bride, who is the daughter of William Miller, 11 Blanche street, was given in marriage by her father. She wore an afternoon frock of heaven blue sheer wool with matching hat and an orchid shoulder corsage.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Miller was her sister's only attendant, and she was attired in a crepe dress of the new China tea shade with navy blue accessories. Yellow rosebuds formed her shoulder corsage.

Mr. Mosey, who is the son of William P. Mosey, 99 West Second street, chose his brother, Allen Mosey, to be his best man. Albert C. Arnold, cousin of the bride, and C. Wilson Barnes were the ushers.

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception was held for relatives and close friends of the couple at the Miller home. Mrs. Henry Ressler of Orrville and Mrs. C. Wilson Barnes presided at the buffet luncheon table, which was decorated with a tiered-wedding cake, flowers and candles.

Mr. and Mrs. Mosey are taking a short motor trip, and upon their return to Mansfield, they will reside temporarily at the West Second street address. Mrs. Mosey, who was graduated from the Orrville high school, is employed at the H. L. Reed company. She is a member of Chi Sigma and Gamma Gamma Gamma sororities. Mr. Mosey attended Ohio State university following his graduation from Mansfield Senior high school. He is an employe of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company and a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

Helen Stier Becomes Bride Of Frank Moritz Saturday

MISS HELEN ANN STIER was attired in ivory net over flirtation satin Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock for her marriage to Frank Moritz at the St. Peter's Catholic church. The formal nuptial ceremony was performed by Rev. John Flynn. The bride's gown was made in the princess style with a high-fashioned neck, and puffed sleeves. Woven flowers edged the sleeves and bodice.

Her fingertip length veil was trimmed with seed pearls forming a tiera to hold the shirred net cap in place. She carried a bouquet of white roses and gardenias.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Stier, 233 West Sixth street, was attended by Mrs. Agnes Moritz, who wore a gown made exactly like the bride's of Heaven blue net. She carried yellow roses and sweet peas.

Nuptial music was played before and during the ceremony by Raymond Baum, church organist. Mr. Moritz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moritz, sr., R. D. 5, was attended by his brother, Fred, jr.

Mr. and Mrs Moritz will make their home with the bridegroom's parents. Mr. Moritz is engaged in farming.

Mansfield Couple Wed In Akron Saturday

A wedding of interest here took place at 3 p. m. Saturday in Akron, when Miss Ruth Lieghley, 223 West First street, and Charles S. Duckwald, jr., 235 West First street, were married by Dr. F. Howard Callahan, pastor of the First Methodist church of Columbus. The former Miss Lieghley wore a dark blue dress and matching accessories with a shoulder corsage of peach tone roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

The bride is reference librarian at the Mansfield Public library, while Mr. Duckwald is in charge of the pricing division at the Ideal Electric and Manufacturing company. Mr. and Mrs. Duckwald will be at home at 132½ Sturges avenue after Feb. 1.

Girls Make Every Year Leap Year

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Perhaps you hadn't noticed that this is Leap Year.

Leap Year, you know, has always offered a twelve-month period of upside-down-ness in the world of romance, when the shy girl could have her innings, and the girl not so shy could simply act naturally. At the same time, the most masterful of youths would have to allow himself to be wooed or overlooked as the case might be.

So, in the days when it was the custom for men to do all the inviting, and when girls sat sweetly at home by the fireside, waiting and hoping for the bids that they mustn't move a muscle to secure, because it wouldn't be ladylike,—Leap Year was a dazzling opportunity.

In Leap Year, a girl could actually invite a man to a party. She could even provide a taxi and see the whole thing through from beginning to end. If her guest happened also to be the man she was secretly madly in love with,—she could even breathlessly propose to him. Tradition sanctioned this.

It was supposed not to be easy to do, in days when men took all the initiative and girls were limited to a passive role,—but some love-stricken lasses did take this desperately romantic plunge and get away with it.

Girls used to idealize men in those days. Do they still? And if the boy friend was irresistibly sympathetic, indeed, utterly divine, yet had failed to speak the magic word of love,—and if there seemed every chance that some competing girl would grab him the next week if you didn't,—why a girly could and did summon courage to fling herself at the fascinating creature's head.

And what about him? Why, very likely he was just a nice plegmatic boy who had been in love all the time but that hadn't got to the point of saying so.

But now we have a different kind of Leap Year. Or rather a different race of boys and girls whose customs are, I am sure, more wholesome, as they are certainly more natural. And to a girl who doesn't have much difficulty in making her preferences plain, who is skillful at easing a man out of the picture if he bores her, or at enticing him delicately within her web if he has caused her serious heart-throbs — Leap Year can't, of course, be the great carnival it used to be.

At this point, I'll confess that my own observation has been that the really enterprising girl with a capacity both for love and leadership, has her own individual way of turning every year into a Leap Year.

And why shouldn't she? Girls have certainly as good judgment in choosing their life-mates as men have. And if a girl has a handsome beau who meets all her specifications and whom she'd like to tag as a permanent partner—I'm all for her doing it.

For such a girl, Leap Year would simply give her the chance to make her proposal in plain language. At any other time, she'd use methods more indirect but probably just as sure in the end.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, January 30.

The general trend of events on this day, acording to interesting lunar and mutual aspects, will be along progressive and constructive lines. The mental and creative faculties will be highly stimulated and directed into new grooves of expression, possibly in the way of experimentation or explorations in invention, science, art or literature. However, there may be obstacles and delays to challenge the resources. Try compromise and finesse in handling such opposition.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of much progress and productive activity. Activity may be in fresh fields of endeavor, possibility in literary, inventive, scientific, artistic or mechanical lines of construction. Definite headway is likely, despite several forms of opposition, obstruction, postponements or setbacks. These may be handled with diplomacy or connivance.

A child born on this day may be studious, diligent and steady, perhaps talented in creative lines. It may have artistic ability seeking novel expressions.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

PHILIP VERITZEN smiled indulgently at his future stepdaughter.

"She not only has told me," he said, "but she and I have agreed that the scheme is an entirely feasible one, and Mrs. Graham, I believe, is planning to have your lines written this morning, so that you can be up in them by the time the harps I ordered get here. I will come back at that time to hear you play the harp you select and hear you go through your lines.

"You have a good speaking voice," he went on, "and your training insures that you will not suffer 'stage fright' by a public appearance. Mrs. Graham and I see that you and your harp will fit very nicely into one of the scenes. The only question before me now is how well you can play the harp. Upon that everything depends."

"Mrs. Graham tells me that you were offered a professional career," he said. "You will forgive me, I know, if I tell you that I never take anyone's word upon the qualifications of any of the people in my productions I wish to hear you play the harp, and then I can tell you whether or not I can grant your request."

He paused and looked directly at her, evidently expecting an answer. The defiant resentment in her face deepened, and her voice when she answered him was proud and cold.

"I am sure of few things any more," she said, "but I am not afraid to play the harp for you. If that is all that stands in the way of my having a role in Mrs. Graham's play, my wish is already granted."

"It surely will be, my dear, if it is within my power," he said, smiling at her, but she did not smile back at him, only saying with formal deference:

"Will you please excuse me now? I ought to go back to Maman."

He looked at her sharply, but aloud he said only: "Of course, my dear."

She turned to me with no lessening of her stiff formality.

"Maman bade me ask you, Mrs. Graham, if you would come to see her sometime during the day, at your convenience, of course."

"Tell her, please, that I shall be very glad to see her," I said, and with a "thank you" and an inclination of the head to both of us, she walked gracefully, but with a certain stiffness in her carriage which made Philip Veritzen smile whimsically at me.

"Now that she's out of earshot," he said, "I can tell you I have no doubt whatever that she will qualify for that role. But it never would do to hand it to her on a silver platter. She must feel that it is no trivial thing she has asked."

"Discipline must be maintained," I murmured, remembering my Dickens, but he did not hear me. He was too absorbed in something else, as I knew when he put a quick crisp query.

"Has Queen Olga yet given you the name of the jeweler who collected those lost emeralds?" he said.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T DO IT TOO EARLY

Doubling a low opponent's bid, with the idea of trying to collect a nice big penalty score for setting him, is one of the marks of a good competitor. But there is such a thing as a premature double, one which is made when it is quite likely, from your own distribution, that the enemy has another suit to show and you also have another suit which might be well to proclaim to your partner. Doubling at such a time may merely give your opponent a chance to tell his story to his partner while beating yourself out of a chance to tell your story to your mate.

Dealer: South. Both sides vulnuerable.)

Four real experts had a great post-mortem after this deal, played in a recent national tournament Charles Lochridge opened in the South with 1-Club Herbert D. Lent in the West bid 1-Spade, and John Rau in the North made a business double. This passed to West, who then bid 2-Diamonds. Travers LeGros in the East was pleased and passed this.

Mr. Lochridge in the South feared properly that his side couldn't beat that contract, so bid 2-No Trumps on the strength of his apparent diamond stopper, plus his partner's spade double. Mr. Rau then showed his hearts for the first time at 3-Hearts, whereupon Mr. Lochridge bid 3-No Trumps. East's preferential pass of diamonds caused Mr. Lent to lead that suit, so it was run, plus the spade A, for a two-trick set.

In the post-mortem, all hands, including Mr. Rau, agreed that if he had bid his hearts on his first turn, then rebid them on his second chance, Mr. Lochridge would have been justified in putting the side into 4-Hearts, which could not be stopped.

Crackers, Crumbs Useful

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

THESE delectable recipes owe much of their goodness to crackers or cracker crumbs.

Date and Nut Torte leads off the sweet procession, and it deserves this place of honor. It is easy to make, yet a most effective dish to look at as well as to sample. It is made with one cup sugar, two stiffly-beaten egg whites, six graham crackers, one cup chopped walnut meats, one-half pound chopped dates, teaspoon vanilla. Add the sugar gradually to the stiffly-beaten egg whites. Crush crackers fine, combine with nutmeats, dates and flavoring. Add to egg whites. Pour into well-buttered pie plate. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 30 minutes. Break into small pieces with a fork and serve with whipped cream. Six portions.

For a quick goodie, spread crisp, sweet biscuits with raspberry jam. Then garnish each one with a generous amount of whipped cream or cream cheese which has been slightly softened with cream and forced through a pastry tube.

Plum Mousse Recipe.

Plum Mousse makes a special dessert. Use No. 2 can purple plums, teaspoon lemon juice, one-half cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon vanilla, one cup whipping cream and 14 shortbread biscuits, crumbled. Drain plums, remove pits and sieve pulp. Add lemon juice, sugar, salt and vanilla. Whip cream until soft and fold with crumbled shortbread-type biscuit. Chill thoroughly. Six to eight portions.

Apple tart addicts will go for this version of their old favorite. Zwieback Apple Torte is made with eight apples, pared and sliced, one and one-half cups sugar, two tablespoons butter, one-half cup water, one and two-thirds cups evaporated milk, four eggs, one and one-half teaspoons vanilla, one-half teaspoon salt, grated rind of one-half lemon, 18 zwieback biscuits, one-third of a cup each sugar and butter, teaspoon cinnamon, whipped cream and cherries. Cook the apples slowly in sauce pan with one cup sugar, butter and water until tender. Combine milk, eggs and one-half cup sugar and add to the apples. Cook slowly, stirring constantly, until of custard consistency. Add flavoring, salt and lemon rind. Finely crush zwieback and mix with remaining ingredients. Put half the mixture in a well-buttered, nine-inch spring form. Add the apple custard and cover with remaining crumbs. Bake in 325 degree F. oven for 45 minutes. Cool and chill. Garnish with whipped cream and cherries.

For a quick but grand dessert or afternoon tea delicacy, spread oatmeal crackers generously with butter. Sprinkle with dark brown sugar and a dash of cinnamon. Place in a moderate to hot oven for five minutes or so. Serve hot.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

MOP THE MATTRESS

Comfort and cleanliness are combined in a new innerspring mattress permanently covered with a fabric that can be mopped with soap and water like the kitchen linoleum. For mattresses with non-washable surfaces there are practical cotton covers that are easy to remove for laundering and just as easy to put back on again.

COBBLER TOPPING

Try this new topper for your next fruit cobbler: Mix in ½ cup of grated cheese, ¼ cup broken nut meats and 1 teaspoon grated orange rind to each 1½ cups of crust mixture. You may need about a tablespoon more liquid than usually called for, but add it sparingly.

I HAD THE SPOTLIGHT JITTERS!
Modess

Whenever we have "Amateur Night" in our town, everybody tries for a chance! I practiced my dance for weeks. But when the big moment came, it proved to be one of my "difficult days." And I always chafe so badly, I was afraid I just couldn't dance. So . . .

I was going to give up the whole idea, when my dancing teacher came to the rescue. "Little goose," she laughed, "wait till I get you some Miracle Modess. It now has 'Moisture Zoning'—a wonderful new feature that acts to direct moisture inside the pad, keeping sides dry and comfortable longer than ever before!"

Then she rounded up some Modess and showed me why Modess is softer, too. "Look," she said, as she opened a pad. "Modess is entirely different from layer-type napkins—it's made of fluff. And its moisture-resistant backing guards against accidents. So go ahead and dance with a light heart." Well . . .

I went out before that crowd and danced as carefree and self-possessed as you please! Someday I'm going to try my act on a big stage. I may never make the grade, but anyway I got my chance, thanks to teacher and that wonderfully comfortable Miracle Modess.

TRY IT NOW! New Miracle Modess WITH "Moisture Zoning"!

Friendly House Lads Fight In Semi-Finals at Cleveland

BEAUFORD GLOVER, Paul Carbetta and Al Sauders, classy Friendly House amateur mittsters, are back in Cleveland today to participate in the semi-finals of the 12th annual Golden Gloves tournament at Public Hall tonight. Glover, lightweight, and Carbetta, a flyweight, who have won a number of north central Ohio championships, battle in the open division, while Sauers, a hard-punching middleweight, will perform in the novice division. Carbetta now ranks as the favorite to cop championship honors in the 112-pound class. The semi-finals get under way at 8 p. m.

Seeks Revenge In Armory Tonight

Layden Attempts to Stop Masked Marvel on Quality Club Card Tonight.

CHARLEY LAYDEN, the stocky, well muscled Irishman from Ft. Wayne, Ind., will go out after a huge slice of revenge tonight in the Armory ring when he comes to grips with the Masked Marvel, mysterious, masked and undefeated matman.

* * *

Layden and the Marvel will meet in the upper half of a double main event wrestling card under the direction of Tim Nolan's Quality club.

* * *

The husky Irish lad feels that he has some revenge coming after the unfortunate break he got in the officiating here last week which brought about his defeat.

The weird looking marvel however has shown himself to be a smart, alert knight of the padded mat and he won't let anything that happened last week affect his judgment in dealing with Layden tonight.

In other words Charley can't expect any letup in the everlasting vigilance of the Marvel.

* * *

The other half of the double bill will be a battle of the "Walters"—Stratton of Leetonia, O., and Achiu of Honolulu. In other words Walter Stratton the little farmer boy against the popular Hawaiian, "Sneeze" Achiu.

* * *

The opening event, a half hour tilt will pit Hank Vanderbilt the husky, swift moving Plymouth, O., light-heavyweight against Ralph Akers, the Flint, Mich. youngster, who'll be making his third appearance here. This event opens the show at 8.30 prompt.

Jacobs Plans 20 Title Bouts

Expects Champion Scraps To Gross $3,000,000.

NEW YORK —(INS)— Mike Jacobs, who is Mr Boxing to the fistic fraternity, plans to stage at least 20 championship fights this year and expects these will go far toward amassing the $3,000,000 total expects his fight gates to attain before Christmas

* * *

Mike put on 11 titular bouts last year and did a gross business of $1,700,000, but before leaving for Miami yesterday, he predicted that there will be far more action in the ring through the next 11 months.

* * *

Joe Louis will defend his heavyweight crown at least four times as he did last year The light heavyweight class saw four title bouts but may see two more this year because Champion Billy Conn demands plenty of action.

Six Major Clubs Await M'Coy's Decision

By DALE STAFFORD

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich —(AP)— Baseball's battle of dollars for the services of 23-year-old Benny McCoy is scheduled to end before sundown with the former Detroit Tiger infielder affixing his signature to a contract with one of six major league clubs still seeking his services.

* * *

McCoy, who was declared a free agent recently by Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis along with 90 other Tiger chattels, could have signed a contract at midnight Sunday, but he delayed until this afternoon to await final offers.

* * *

"I'll be glad to get it over with," McCoy said "I have had hardly any rest since I got the good news that I was a free agent"

Clubs named by McCoy as still interested in him are Boston, Pittsburgh, Brooklyn and Cincinnati of the National league and Philadelphia and Washington of the American circuit.

Leading in the bidding as Auctioneer McCoy prepared to bring down the gavel were the Athletics with an offer of $40,000 in cash and a two-year playing contract at $10,000 a season. The Pittsburgh Pirates were next with a $35,000 bid. Both offers represent record bids for a free agent.

* * *

"After getting the final offers from the Athletics, Dodgers and Reds, I shall keep promises to call officials of the Pirates, Bees and Senators," McCoy said.

* * *

Due for a conference with McCoy this morning was Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds who held a preliminary chat with the youngster last night.

Extra! Coach Turns Away All-State Backfield Man!

(By Associated Press)

LUBBOCK, Tex—Can you picture a college football coach discouraging an all-state prep school quarterback from joining his squad?

* * *

It's hard to believe, but it happened down this way a few days ago.

* * *

Pete Cawthon sr of Texas Tech was the coach Pete Cawthon, jr., was the interscholastic star

Several of the country's older gridiron mentors have faced the problem of whether their sons should play football under them or under some other tutor

Tuss McLaughry of Brown permitted his son to play on his club and John was one of the East's best backs last fall. But Ray Morrison wouldn't allow his son Jack to enroll at Southern Methodist while Ray was coaching there Jack went to Vanderbilt and a year later when Morrison became coach at Vanderbilt, Jack switched to Southern Methodist

Cawthon reacted to the problem just as Morrison did He urged his son to go to some other institution

"If you join my squad," Cawthon told his son, "you would have to be twice as good as any other Texas Tech back before I would think of playing you.

"Furthermore, every mistake you made would bring unjust criticism from unthinking fans, both on you and on me. So choose another school"

* * *

Pete jr., a 6-foot-2, 180-pounder who quarterbacked Lubbock high to the Texas Interscholastic league championship, hasn't decided yet where he'll go.

* * *

"You may be sorry, Pop, that you wouldn't take me," the youngster said "I may come back to beat you"

Campolo In American Ring Debut Tonight

Argentine Heavyweight to Tackle Jim Robinson in Newark Gardens.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Fighters are popularly supposed to be rather dumb animals and it may be that some of them are as dumb as the public imagines.

* * *

But many of them, even with little or no education, have an innate shrewdness that has often enabled them to outsmart the so-called smart hombres of the fight racket and not a few of them have shown an amazing capacity for business in and out of the ring.

* * *

This thought was brought to use today in noting that Valentin Campolo, an Argentine heavyweight, is going to make his debut against Jim Robinson of Philadelphia in Laurel Gardens, Newark, tonight.

It was in this same ring that another Argentine heavyweight, Luis Firpo, the Wild Bull of the Pampas, made his American debut about 18 years ago and thereby hangs a tale

Firpo looked like a simpleton who would be an easy target for any sharper. He was huge, hairy and hungry and he owned one rubber collar. But Firpo was far from a simpleton as the smart boys soon discovered.

The ring is full of cases of fighters, some of whom were well educated and smart, who let fortunes slip through their fingers Sometimes their loss was attributable to hard luck more often to poor business judgment Benny Leonard, Tony Canzoneri and Jess Willard all were wealthy men at one time, but unfortunate investments carried away much of what they had

On the other hand we have fellows like Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney who made fortunes and not only knew how to keep what they earned but even to increase their wealth outside the ropes

Max Schmeling is one of the shrewdest business men the fight game ever saw and if you have any doubts on this score ask some of the smart lads how much he made out of the pictures on his last fight with Joe Louis

Those pictures cost Schmeling very little but it is estimated that he made $400,000 on them in Germany

* * *

Barney Ross is a successful diamond merchant and believe it or not happy go lucky Maxie Rosenbloom is no chump when it comes to turning a dollar. Ask Hollywood.

* * *

These of course were champions but the champions have no corner on business brains Tony Galento probably will never be a champion but he continues to make a huge success out of his pub and runs the place himself

No The boys aren't always as dumb as they may look

Here's One! Cagers Play in Underwear.

HAMILTON, Ont.—(CP)—Bereft of regular uniforms, Hamilton's Golden Flashes played a city basketball league game with Dofascos anyway—in their underwear. The Flashes, some of whom wore the red flannel variety, said their uniforms were taken away by a former sponsor. They lost, 35-28.

Toledo Combine Risks State Cage Leadership In Chicago Tilt

Rockets Seek 18th Win Against Dangerous DePaul Club Tonight.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Toledo's Rockets go visiting this week, and there's just a chance they will come home minus the state-wide collegiate basketball leadership they now hold with 17 wins and two defeats

Tonight the Rockets meet DePaul at Chicago, and the westerners are not to be brushed aside easily, despite the Rockets' powerful offense If Toledo gets by that one, John Carroll must be met Saturday night at Cleveland.

* * *

Miami, second placer with eight victories against a single setback, travel to Richmond, Ind., for a tilt with Earlham, but the Ohioans are favored.

* * *

With mid-year exams out of the way, Buckeye squads swing back into heavy action this week with 36 games. Half of them are booked for Saturday night, 10 are in the Ohio conference, and 14 with out-of-state squads.

Muskingum, Ohio conference leader with seven straight, gets a chance to boost its edge over second place Wooster, which has won six. The Muskies entertain Ohio Northern in a league fray while Wooster meets W. & J. in a tilt that doesn't count.

The schedule:

Monday: Findlay at Bluffton, Toledo at DePaul.

Tuesday: Otterbein at Wittenberg, Mount Union at Bowling Green, Cincinnati at Akron, Miami at Earlham, Cedarville at Rio Grande.

Wednesday: Defiance at Bluffton, Georgetown at Alfred Holbrook.

Thursday: Heidelberg at Ohio Northern, Lawrence Tech at DeSales, Wilmington at Wilberforce, Detroit Tech at Fenn, Hiram at Kent State.

* * *

Friday: Hobart at Baldwin Wallace, Bowling Green at Marietta, Case at Miami, Detroit Tech at Ohio Chiropodists.

* * *

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

DEL MAR, Cal.—(U.P.)—I was the low amateur at Bing Crosby's $3,000 golf tournament.

* * *

Many of the spectators who followed the play over the colorful Rancho Santa Fe course said that my performance qualified me as the lowest amateur of all time.

* * *

Two of the golf experts who agreed with this observation were Jimmy Thompson and Horton Smith, both of who played in my foursome, and were in the line of fire throughout. Horton pretty well summed up my game when, after the first 18 holes he said that the only compliment that he had been able to pay me all day was "nice out, Henry."

I was in more traps than a Russian. Faced more hazards than a human fly with a hangover, and picked up so many times that my caddy followed me with a de-compression chamber to save me from the bends. When the official scorer asked me to sign my card, I just added another "x" to the previous 18.

That made me 18 over "x," and enabled me to collect my two dollar Nassau bet with Grantland Rice all three ways, as his scorer had neglected to mark one of his "x's" They are now calling my wife "Madame X" around the hotel.

At the end of the first 18 holes, the half way mark for the tournament, Thomson and Smith wired the president of the P. G. A. in Chicago to find out if it were possible to change amateurs in the middle of a stream, which is exactly where Rice and I were at the time, lying eight. The answer, in 10 words was no, and Smith and Thomson then asked us if we in our sport writing careers had ever known of a case in which amateurs quit pros. We took the hint on the 30th hole and quit.

* * *

The gallery, which consisted of Mrs. Thomson and Mrs. Smith, gave us a rousing hand as we headed back to the clubhouse, our bid for glory gone. If any of you really love golf you would have been shocked at the way we spoke of the game on our way back to the locker room.

* * *

I was particularly bitter against unplayable lies which take the joie devivre out of the game, as a French pro told me when he quit me on the third hole in a pro-amateur event at fashionable St. Cloud. I was particularly bitter against the golf rule which penalizes a player a stroke even when he does not touch the ball on his swing. In the set I usually play with we always call a whiff a practice stroke.

The official scorer who accompanies players in tournaments annoys, too. A man's trap is his castle, I feel, and what he does there is nobody's business. It certainly never added to a man's peace of mind to have a churlish official standing on the trap's rim and counting like a referee over a stricken fighter. It's a slur on a man's honesty and besides you can't throw the ball out when they're staring at you all the time.

* * *

I am not only going to start a new paragraph, but a new back swing as well. The one I have seems to be good for a lot of laughs, but is getting me no place in tournament golf.

* * *

Using an assumed name I am going to Phoenix next week for the pro amateur tournament there. And some gullible professional is in for a nasty shock when and if he finds out that the Milton J Ronickle with whom he is paired is really Henry McLemore, the fellow for whom the expression "no card" was coined

Cleckner Hits 704 In Match

Mansfield Kegler Collects High Total on Games of 222, 226 and 256 Saturday.

A SPECTACULAR 704 total collected by Dale Cleckner in a special match Saturday night enabled him to set the individual pace at the Meder Recreation alleys over the week-end.

Playing with Mansfield against a Galion club, the kegler started out with a nifty 222, followed with a 226 and finished with a brilliant 256 as he compiled one of the highest scores of the season.

His maple busting enabled the Mansfield team to win three games from the invaders. Another highlight of the game was the 1015 total collected by the Mansfielders in the final game The Mansfield team scored a 2973 team total, adding a 989 and 969 to the fat final game Farrell Hipp and John Leppo trailed Cleckner with 612 and 609, respectively.

* * *

Nothacker of the Shelby Cycles tallied a 606 as his team dropped two games to the Kochheiser Sports in a special match Sunday.

* * *

The Greystone night club keglers lost two games to the King Pins in a special match at Ashland Sunday. The Mansfield team hit a 1022 score in the final game.

Led by John Schmidt and Harold Selby, the Leiderkranz team hit a 2932 total to win three games from the Mansfield club in a North Central Ohio Traveling league match at the Meder alleys Sunday.

Schmidt had a 642 and Leppo added a 613 as the Liederkranz club marked up games of 997, 1014, and 921. Farrell Hipp of the Mansfield team, paced his teammates with a 619.

The Liederkranz club dropped a pair of games to the Port Clinton team in a NCO Traveling league match at Port Clinton Saturday.

Wins Crosby Title With Sub-Par Mark

DEL MAR, Calif.—(AP) — With sturdy Ed Oliver of Hornell, N. Y., installed as winner of the fourth annual $3,000 Bing Crosby golf tournament, the touring brigade of professionals swung past today.

* * *

Oliver repeated his sub-par Saturday performance yesterday and led the field with a 36-hole card of 68-67—135 to capture his first major tournament. He was nine strokes under par for the regulation 72 at Rancho Santa Fe Country club.

* * *

Three strokes back was Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. Y., and four blows off the leader's pace were Ben Hogan, White Plains, N. Y., and Harold McSpaden of Winchester, Mass Oliver received $500 first money.

RUSSIANS START NEW OFFENSIVE DESPITE LOSSES

Advance Ordered, New Bombings Start in Helsinki Area as Bad Weather Lifts.

fly the commander of a supposedly trapped Russian force there back to Moscow for a "report" to the Kremlin.

Late yesterday at Viborg on the Gulf of Finland there was a one-hour air raid alarm, but Finnish pursuit planes drove off nine Russian bombers which were unable to attack the city.

A Russian prisoner there declared that the Soviet union is opposed to continuation of the war owing to the series of defeats suffered by the Russian armies.

Before going into an attack, he declared, each Russian soldier is supplied with large quantities of vodka, and many of them go into action intoxicated.

Another Russian, a deserter, said:

"I was a kulak (farmer). I was forced to work in a factory. What have I to defend?

"Letters from my wife say that all the hospitals and schools in Leningrad are full of wounded and frost-bitten Russian soldiers.

"Nobody," he added, "believes that the Hitler-Stalin pact will endure."

Allies Seek to Block Germany's Oil Supply.

BUCHAREST — (AP) — A highly-placed informant reports Great Britain and France have given Rumania to understand they may break off economic relations with this country unless the question of oil for Germany is settled to their satisfaction.

The basis of the reported British-French representations is the Rumanian "oil-dictatorship" under which the allies fear their concerns in Rumania will be forced to furnish oil for the German war machine.

Rumania is in the middle.

On one hand, the allies' envoys are said to have confronted Rumania with the alternative of opposing Germany, or losing British-French trade.

On the other, Germany is said to have warned that she will be forced to take "other measures," if she doesn't get larger quantities of Rumanian oil. To underline this need, it is reported, Germany told Bucharest oil was a matter of life or death for the reich.

There are unconfirmed rumors the British and French-controlled oil companies in Rumania are considering a campaign of passive resistance in their plants against any Rumanian attempts to require shipment of their product to Germany.

Along with United States companies, the British and French concerns control the bulk of Rumania's petroleum production.

Pope Gets Report On Persecution of Poles.

ROME—(INS)—A report charging a German campaign against the Catholic church and the Polish people in sections of German-occupied former Poland, where 15 priests and thousands of other persons are said to have been shot, has been presented to Pope Pius XII with authorization of Auguste Cardinal Hlond, primate of Poland, it was revealed today.

Submitted to the pontiff last week and detailing events up to Dec. 30, the report asserted that the German authorities in the arch-dioceses of Gneizno and Poznan are conducting a program of "real extermination, conceived with diabolical malice and unequalled cruelty."

In addition to breaking up families and jailing scores of thousands of persons, the memorandum claimed, the Germans have closed churches in various districts and have sent Poles to concentration camps in the reich.

The report added that "this extermination . . . all too often is motivated by a perverse sadism."

Stating boys under 14 years of age and young girls—"especially the good-looking ones"—are being sent to Germany for a Hitlerian education," the report added:

"The others, women and babies, sick and aged, after days or weeks of martyrdom in concentration camps are loaded onto cattle trucks to be transported to the governor-generalship. (a special area established by the Germans in central Poland.)

"The cars are closed and are not opened during the journey, either to give food or water to these poor creatures or for natural needs. Such journeys in the bitter cold last two to four days. There are dead in almost every car and most arrive sick when they reach their destinations . . .

"The exiles are simply turned loose in some village or in the open countryside and abandoned to their fate. The German authorities wash their hands of them."

TRIAL OPENS

Brunswick Constable Faces Ashland Jury in Libel Case.

ASHLAND—The trial of Walter R. Petchler, constable at Brunswick, Medina county, charged with criminal libel against Robert M. Greenlun, suspended state highway employe, opened in common pleas court here today after Judge H. E. Culbertson refused to grant the defendant a continuance.

Petchler had asked for continuance on the grounds that one of his character witnesses was absent.

Petchler, with Mark M. Lutz, Brunswick justice of the peace, was indicted Oct. 27 by a grand jury here. Lutz is scheduled to be tried by a jury following the Petchler hearing.

The two officials were indicted last fall after Judge Culbertson had told the county grand jury that libel was rampant in the county, and suggested that perhaps Greenlun had been suspended from his position as supervisor of markings in Division 3, by unfair methods.

10 Congressional Candidates Start 'Whirlwind,' 8-Day Election Campaign.

Cleveland today by Mayor Harold H. Burton that he would seek the Republican nomination for the U. S. senate seat held by A. Vic Donahey, Democrat.

In announcing his candidacy Burton said:

"In this critical period I want to be of the greatetst service I am able. If elected to the United States senate I will dedicate myself to the best interests of the public as a whole, and especially to the causes of peace, economy, industrial and agricultural recovery and the needs of those in distress without fault of their own."

Burton made his long expected announcement when his status with the state Republican organization was in some doubt. Although little has been said publicly, there have been reports of difficulties with the organization because of the recent Cleveland relief crisis, when Burton desired that Governor Bricker call a special session of the legislature, and the governor would not do so.

Burton is the first Republican to announce, but other possibilities are Rep. Dudley White, Norwalk publisher; Rep. George Bender, Cuyahoga county party chairman; Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins of Ironton, and Louis J. Taber of Columbus, national grange master.

Ed D. Schorr, state Republican chairman, is expected to announce at a meeting here of the state executive committee Wednesday selection of Judge Montgomery of the Fifth District Appeals court bench as Ohio National convention delegates' "second choice."

Delegates are required in Ohio to have the written consent of their first and second choices. Senator Taft has been campaigning nationally for the presidential nomination. The "second choice" position is regarded as strictly honorary.

At the Theaters

THIS and That: Walt Disney's "Pinocchio" will have its world premiere during February at Radio City theater. . . . Patric Knowles' screen career has progressed slowly, but leaps ahead with his fine work in "Bill of Divorcement," just completed. . . . There's something suitable in the fact that Ernest Truex, the diminutive comedian, has been chosen for the role of Alice Faye's father in her character of Lillian Russell. Miss Russell, the most glamorous and sensational of all American stage beauties, took Truex out of small time years ago for a role in her show "Wildfire" and he remained with her for two years. . . . "The Blue Bird" in Technicolor is another film that will be road-showed and which won't be seen at regular prices for a long time. . . .

Misery Hike Depicted.

Many Mansfield men who saw service in France during the World war were in the packed houses which saw "The Fighting 69th at the Ohio theater Saturday night and Sunday and put their stamp of approval on the authenticity of the scenes made at Camp Mills and in France. They were particularly impressed with the scenes which showed the 156th regiment of the Rainbow division making the "misery hike" of Christmas, 1917 when frozen ground was churned into mud by hundreds of marching, weary feet. The picture glorifies the character of Father Francis Duffey, chaplain of the "Fighting Irish" regiment. The film remains through Tuesday.

* * *

Versatile Foster.

Continuing through Tuesday "Swanee River" will be shown at the Madison theater. Ameche, who plays the role of Stephen Foster, and Al Jolson, who plays the character part of E. P. Christy, minstrel king of that day, sing several songs, and other melodies are rendered by the famous Hall Johnson choir. So versatile was Foster that Ameche, already an accomplished singer and accomplished pianist, had to learn to play the violin, to whistle, do a soft shoe-dance, and how to box for his role in this picture.

* * *

Comedy and Drama.

The love of a woman for a two-fisted, irritable man is threaded throughout the dramatic story of "Full Confession" which runs through Tuesday at the Park theater. Victor McLaglen and Sally Eilers have the top roles. The story concerns the efforts of a determined priest, played by Joseph Calleia, to make a convict (McLaglen), confess the murder of a policeman, for which crime an innocent man has been sentenced to the electric chair. The second feature is "Blondie Brings Up Baby."

* * *

Modern and Historical.

"Stop, Look and Love," one of the features which runs through Tuesday at the Ritz theater, is a human and hilarious romance which casts Jean Rogers as a young maid with no beaux, all because Mama frightens them away by trying to help rope them into matrimony. The adventure which thrilled the world was retold when the movie "Stanley and Livingston" was made. Spencer Tracy and Nancy Kelly play the leads in this picture which is shown at the Ritz.

* * *

"Wuthering Heights."

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the Majestic theater will present "Wuthering Heights," starring Merle Oberon, Laurence Oliver and David Niven. The story of this picture unfolds on the wild and desolate moors of Yorkshire. It is a tale of a high-spirited, beautiful girl, who is loved madly by two men—one half-gypsy, the other rich and well born. The strange three-cornered love-story is told with dramatic impact, romance and stark human emotions. The second feature is Ann Sheridan in "Angels Wash Their Faces," with the Dead-End kids in the cast.

BORAH'S VIEWS ON PRESIDENTS DURING CAREER

Senator Got Along Better With Roosevelt Than Executives of His Own Party.

Editor's Note—The Washington career of the late Senator Borah spanned the administrations of seven presidents. What he thought of them—from T. R. Roosevelt down to Franklin D. Roosevelt — is revealed in another in a series of articles by William K. Hutchinson, International News Service.)

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON— William Edgar Borah was a life-long Republican but he got along better with a Democratic president, Franklin D. Roosevelt, than with any president from his own party.

Borah fought FDR on many major issues, sometimes in a leading role, often from behind the scenes, but always maintained friendly personal relations with the present occupant of the White House. He was a frequent caller on Mr. Roosevelt, even a luncheon guest, and often consulted on government problems, long after the Supreme court battle.

Every Republican president from Theodore Roosevelt to Herbert Hoover, at some time or other, "got mad" at Borah. Two of them, William Howard Taft and Hoover occasionally aroused Borah's ire.

But Borah had great influence on GOP presidents. Calvin Coolidge tendered him the vice presidential nomination in 1924. Herbert Hoover offered him appointment as secretary of state in 1932. He helped to name cabinet officers and Supreme Court nominees.

Regretted 'Break.'

One regret of his life was a "break" with Theodore Roosevelt, but he never regretted the circumstances nor the role that led to the break. It was in 1912, when Teddy sought the presidency in a third party movement. Borah refused to join it. Borah was charged afterwards with having pledged support to T. R. and then backed out. He denied this, to me, time and again.

Once he told me:

"In April of 1912, two months before the Republican convention in Chicago, I visited T. R. in New York. I told him then in very plain terms I was opposed to a third party. I promised to do everything I could for him in the Republican convention but that if he lost out there, I would not follow him into a third party.

"The convention met in June, and as everybody knows, Taft was nominated. I had done everything I could to get T. R. the nomination.

Of President Warren G. Harding, Borah had little to say. It seemed to me that Harding's tragic death silenced Borah.

He was often critical of Coolidge's political philosophy. This led him to decline the Coolidge invitation to run on the Republican ticket in 1924. Of that historic conference in the White House, he personally reported the conversation in these words:

"The president: Senator, I would like you to go on the ticket with me.

"Borah: Which end, Mr. President?"

Then Borah added:

"The president didn't like it a bit. He was quite irritated. He didn't seem to think it humorous."

Borah campaigned for Herbert Hoover in 1928. His friends and Hoover's too, often said one speech by Borah, answering Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic nominee, resulted in the Republican victory by sweeping the farm states into the GOP column.

In later years, Borah was opposed to everything Hoover represented. Defeat of the Hoover proposal to call a mid-term GOP convention in 1938 was attributable to Borah. The senator campaigned against the Hoover idea from his sideline post and it was his influence which defeated it—in favor of a since-forgotten platform committee.

Once recently, when he was bitterly criticizing Hoover, I gently chided him that he was responsible for Hoover becoming president. He smiled wryly and replied:

"Well, he seemed like the right man at the time but he fooled me."

On another occasion, he gave me a cryptic summary of Republican presidents. He said:

"Our Republican presidents never understood the problem of the masses. They never looked at anything through the eyes of the masses. Harding couldn't do it. Coolidge couldn't.

"Why, Coolidge told me himself the government should aid business, big business, all business and that was the way to improve the lot of the masses.... Think of it, crumbs would fall from the tables of the rich.

"Hoover felt the same way."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 10¢ and 25¢. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

I GOT YOUR MESSAGE, NICK, AND HUSTLED RIGHT OVER- WHAT'S UP?
PLENTY, JACK- I GET TO HEAR THINGS- TALK IS GETTING STARTED THAT TECUM IS ONE OF MY BOYS-
1-29-40
WELL, IN THE RIGHT PLACES THAT'S NOT SO BAD, IS IT?
OF COURSE NOT BUT FOR THE PUBLIC TO GET ANY SUCH IDEA WOULD BE POISON- WE'VE GOT TO WORK FAST-
FIRST, OLD SENATOR BOOGLE GETS A NICE, SAFE JUDICIARY JOB OUT OF THE WAY- YOU'RE TO BE APPOINTED TO FILL THE VACANCY(NEXT ELECTION YOU'LL BE ELECTED)-THEN JOHN'LL STEP IN AS DISTRICT ATTORNEY-
BUT WON'T THAT PROVE EVEN MORE THAN EVER THAT TECUM'S YOUR MAN?
HA! NOT SO YOU'D NOTICE IT- THE ONWARD AND UPWARD LEAGUE IS GOING TO FORCE JOHN'S APPOINTMENT-HE'LL BE SLIPPED OVER ON ME--SEE?

SCENE- F.B.I. HEAD-QUARTERS
BILL, YOU'RE MARRIED— DOES YOUR WIFE WORRY WHEN YOU'RE OFF ON DANGEROUS JOBS?
YOU SAID IT, DAVE! SHE DIES A THOUSAND DEATHS —SUFFERS TORTURE TILL SHE KNOWS I'M SAFE! —BOY, IT'S AWFUL!
IF Y'HAD IT T'DO OVER —KNOWING THAT —DO YOU THINK YOU'D GET MARRIED?
FRANKLY, OL' MAN —NO! —I DON'T THINK I WOULD! —KNOWING WHAT SHE'S GOING THROUGH IS AGONY FOR ME! I TRY T'KEEP THINGS FROM HER —BUT THAT MAKES HER WORRY MORE!

GOOD MORNING, NEBB— HOW'S THE POWER BUSINESS COMING ALONG? WHICH WAY IS YOUR MONEY GOING—IN OR OUT?
IT'S STILL GOING OUT— I CAME OVER TO BORROW TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS FOR A SHORT TIME
1-29
HOW SHORT A TIME AND WHAT DO YOU WANT IT FOR?
ABOUT SIXTY DAYS— YOU CAN PASS ON THE LOAN—NOT MY JUDGMENT
I DONT SAY I WONT LOAN IT TO YOU BUT AS A BANKER I OUGHT TO KNOW WHAT YOU WANT IT FOR—MAYBE I CAN KEEP YOU FROM MAKING A FOOL OF YOURSELF
I GO TO MY CHURCH FOR SALVATION, TO MY LAWYER FOR ADVICE AND TO MY BANKER FOR DOUGH— JUST CREDIT MY ACCOUNT WITH $10,000 AND LET ME MAKE A FOOL OF MYSELF!

STOCKS REMAIN AT VIRTUALLY SAME LEVELS

U. S. Steel, Montgomery Ward Among Few Attracting Mild Support in Session.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks edged up here and there in today's market but the majority remained at a virtually unchanged level.

Attracting mild support were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, Public Service of N. J., Commodities and European securities markets shifted over an irregular range.

Boardrooms scanned the survey of the magazine "Steel" which, while not too pessimistic, spoke of lessening activities in this industry as backlogs continued to shrink under dwindling orders.

The review said it was likely buyers would restrict subsequent purchases more closely to early needs. Finished steel prices were said to be holding steady.

Studied was the statement of the American Federation of Labor which suggested the outlook for business during the next several months was bright.

2 Mansfielders Named to Posts By Young Dems

Two young Mansfield Democrats were named to important posts in the Ohio League of Young Democrats at the closing session of the league's annual convention in Columbus Saturday.

John Correll was appointed executive committee member from the 17th congressional district and Miss Mary K. Newcomer was chosen alternate national committeewoman.

James T. Boland of Toledo was elected president to succeed Oscar Loyer of Findlay. George Farr of Akron, Lawrence Swartz of Cincinnati and Nicholas Riccy, Youngstown, were chosen vice presidents; Mary Holmes, Cincinnati, secretary, and John M. Sprigg, Dayton, treasurer.

The league passed resolutions endorsing the principles of the Roosevelt administration, thanking Mrs. Louise Reese of Mansfield for her work as state secretary last year, and condemning the expenditure of funds for special elections next month in the 17th and 22nd congressional districts. The league avoided discussion on a third term for President Roosevelt.

It also was voted to request that the National Youth administration be enlarged and made permanent.

Attending the sessions from Richland county were Miss Newcomer, Mrs. Reese, Correll, Sheriff E. P. Long, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe, Assistant Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz, Attys. Marshall C. Moore and Charles Freehafer, William Grebe, and James Breres.

Police Hunt $33,000 Gem Haul Stolen From Actresses

FIVE CHICAGO GUNMEN FORCE AUTO TO CURB

Constance Bennett and Anita Louise Robbed on Return From Charity Dance.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO — A smooth-working band of stickup-men was hunted in Chicago today in connection with the robbery of $33,000 in jewels from Constance Bennett and Anita Louise, stage and screen actresses.

The actresses were forced to hand over the gems early Sunday when five armed and masked men forced Miss Bennett's limousine to the curb at a dark and deserted corner of the loop district.

Miss Bennett and Miss Louise were returning to their hotel with Richard Ainley, young English actor, from a charity dance when the holdup occurred. George Bayne, Miss Bennett's chauffeur, was slugged but not seriously hurt when he failed to comply promptly with the robbers' demands.

From Miss Bennett the bandits took a diamond bracelet she said was worth $28,000, and an imitation ring worth $95. Miss Louise yielded a $3,000 diamond bracelet, $1,500 sapphire ring and a diamond ring valued at $500. All the jewels were covered by insurance, the actresses said.

Miss Bennett said the quintet departed quickly when she shouted "someone is coming," leaving her her $7,500 mink coat as well as other jewels. The robbers also missed $400 carried by Ainley, who is Miss Bennett's leading man in the touring play "Easy Virtue," which closed in Chicago Saturday and is to open in St. Louis this week.

Both Miss Bennett and Miss Louise promised authorities they would return to Chicago at any time to prosecute the robbers. Miss Bennett was in St. Louis today, while Miss Louise was to leave for Memphis, Tenn.

Miss Bennett said the robbery made her more angry than frightened.

"The more I think about it," she said, "the madder I get. Imagine the nerve of it all! Anyway, this has been a lesson to me. From now on I'm going to wear paste jewelry."

Ainley and Miss Louise had little to say. Ainley, describing how one of the bandits jumped on the running board of the car flourishing a pistol, said:

"He told me to sit quiet, and I did."

Most Proposals of Marriage Made In Cars, Survey Shows

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — By far the most marriage proposals are now made outside the girl's home, probably in some automobile, the Institute of Family Relations deduces from a study of 1,181 proposals.

Dr. Paul Popenoe, general director of the institute, concluded: "Modern homes are small or lack privacy. The automobile gives the couple a chance to be alone. Hence 25 per cent of the proposals were made in the car and only 23 per cent in the girl's home."

Dr. Popenoe contended the average man's proposal technique is disgraceful:

"A common performance, it appears, is for the young couple to be looking into a furniture store window when the man inquires, "how's about you and me fixing up a little love nest, huh?"

One man proposed as his girl, frightened by a rattlesnake in the path, stepped back into his arms. Another proposed after he had finished a slab of gooseberry pie at a picnic and was introduced to the girl who made it."

LEXINGTON MAN STRICKEN HERE

Funeral services for Martin Luther Sowash, 76, of Lexington, who died Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Mehl, 85 West Sixth street, after a brief illness, will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Snyder funeral home in Lexington. Rev. Glenn M. Sauder will officiate and burial will be in Lexington cemetery.

Mr. Sowash, who was born Dec. 25, 1863 near Lucas, is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Mehl and Mrs. Jay Prosser of Mansfield; Mrs. Earl McGee of Barberton and Mrs. Jud Prosser of Bellville; two sons, Ira and Howard of Lexington; a sister, Mrs. Frank Hoffman and a brother, Hiram Sowash of Mansfield, 25 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

BURNS KILL DENTIST

CADIZ, O.—INS—A smoldering cigaret that ignited the daybed on which he had fallen asleep in his office was blamed today for the fatal burns suffered by George P. Sharp, Cadiz dentist and World war veteran. A daughter survives.

Up and Down THE STREET

A rent-free home had been provided today for Mr. and Mrs. Paul Young and their three children whose home on Geddes avenue was destroyed by fire Friday, but the family still needed furniture and bedding. The Mansfield Service league found a home for the stricken family and was attempting today to locate enough equipment to make it seem more homelike. Donations of furniture will be received by Mrs. R. R. Black, 182 West Second street.

What W. F. Haldman, 11 Dawson avenue, wants to know is what satisfaction an irate autoist got by breaking the window in his car the other night while the machine was parked on North Walnut street. A passerby told Haldman that a driver, after experiencing some difficulty in getting his car started from the curb, lost his temper, got out of his car and strode up to the Haldman machine and smashed the door glass with his fist.

H. E. McAllister, 194 Fairlawn avenue, is one of the few persons in this vicinity who keeps informed on the fate of the Pitcairn Islanders in the South Pacific. McAllister gets his information from Dorothy Hall, the "ham" short-wave radio operator of Long Island who talked last year to the islanders by means of a 60-watt sending station on the island operated by Andrew Long, descendant of Christian Fletcher, mutineer of the S. S. Bounty. Mrs. Hall told McAllister in a letter the other day that all ships have stopped passing the island since the war, and that their one small short wave radio is broken. These isolated people will have no contact with the world until some ship takes them new parts for their little radio set.

When the Richland county chapter of the American Red Cross conducts its next annual roll call there will be at least a dozen men who will probably "dig a little depper" in their pockets to assist in its work. On the job for nearly 40 continuous hours repairing frozen water mains, a crew of water department workmen yesterday afternoon received hot coffee and sandwiches sent by chapter after Mayor William J. Locke informed the Red Cross of the emergency work.

ILLNESS FATAL

Mrs. Hainer, Lifelong County Resident, Dies at 77.

Mrs. Ina Kennedy Hainer, 77, a native of Washington township, died Sunday evening at the Hammond Convalescent home, 350 Park avenue west.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cochran Kennedy, pioneer residents of Washington township, Mrs. Hainer spent her early life on a farm in that township, attended Lexington Academy, and was a member of the United Presbyterian church. She was married 50 years ago on Christmas day to Wesley B. Hainer, who preceded her in death.

Surviving are two brothers, H. H. Kennedy, Washington township, and S. P. Kennedy of Chicago, two nieces and a nephew.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Tuesday at the Finefrock funeral home with Rev. Henry Ford, pastor of the United Presbyterian church officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

U. S. MAPS PROBE OF REV. COUGHLIN

Investigation to Be Made 'In Due Course', Aid in Attorney General's Office Says.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Rev. Charles E. Coughlin has been marked for investigation "in due course" by the Department of Justice following the filing of formal complaints against the Michigan radio priest by the Jewish Peoples committee.

This was confirmed by O. John Rogge, assistant U. S. attorney general, before he left last night for Minneapolis and Chicago to gather additional evidence in a widening inquiry stemming from the arrest of 17 Christian Front members here on charges of seditious conspiracy to overthrow the government.

Father Coughlin, in his regular Sunday broadcast from Detroit, said he would welcome "with graciousness" an investigation of his activities.

Rogge declined to discuss the nature of the accusations made by the Jewish organization against Father Coughlin. "They will be investigated in due course," he said.

Two weeks ago, following the arrest of the 17 alleged plotters, the Michigan priest issued a statement denying any affiliation with the Christian Front to which they belonged and said he "roundly disavowed it."

A week later he described himself as "a friend of the accused," and continued: "I did not belong to any unit of the Christian Front: Nevertheless I do not disassociate myself from that movement."

GROCER DIES

Robert H. Wilson, 54, Stricken After Lingering Illness.

Robert H. Wilson, 54, of 638 Springmill street, died early today at his home following a lingering illness. He was born Oct. 25, 1886 in Wooster and had been a resident of Mansfield since 1906.

Mr. Wilson, a granite cutter by trade, had operated a grocery store at Harker and Springmill streets for the past two years. Previously he had been employed by Fraser Granite company, Goodsman Granite company and D. C. Bancroft company. He was a member of the St. John's Evangelical church, the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Mansfield Aerie No. 336, and the Loyal Order of Moose, Mansfield Lodge No. 341.

Surviving are his wife, Agnes, and two brothers, William W. Wilson of Mansfield and Samuel H. Wilson of Wooster.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Finefrock funeral home with Rev. Paul A. Saleste of St. John's Evangelical church officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery. The body will remain in the home until noon Tuesday.

BUCYRUS WOMAN DIES AT AGE 65

Mrs. Martha Marggraf Stricken After Illness of 2 Years.

BUCYRUS—Mrs. Martha Marggraf, 65, a native of Germany, died early today at her home here after an illness of two years. She had been bedfast for the past five weeks.

Born July 5, 1874 in Germany, Mrs. Marggraf came to America when 20 years old, and had lived in Bucyrus since her marriage to Robert Marggraf in 1898. Her husband preceded her in death in 1925. She was a member of Good Hope Lutheran church.

Surviving are four children, Mrs. Carl Hoefer, Paul and Arthur at home, and Rudolph of Bucyrus, and two brothers in Germany. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Henderson and Lutz funeral home with Rev. H. H. Glick officiating. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

be taken up by the senate foreign relations committee on Wednesday. At the same meeting committee Chairman Pittman (D.), Nevada, expects to get agreement to issuance of an invitation for Secretary of State Hull to present a "full survey of foreign policy in the orient" at a subsequent special meeting.

Proposals for enactment of legislation authorizing the president to embargo Japanese imports to this country laid the groundwork for the scheduled study of foreign policy in the east. Pittman said he did not believe congress should delay in passing legislation permitting embargoes against Japan, and planned to expedite its consideration as much as possible.

"The U. S.-Japanese commercial treaty was terminated on January 26," Pittman pointed out, "and as soon after Mr. Hull appears as possible, we should decide whether we will pass legislation giving our state department the necessary power to meet Japanese discrimination against the United States with an embargo against Japanese goods."

Clark bucked considerable administration sentiment supporting the proposal for a loan to Finland, but the Japanese embargo question found the committee about evenly divided over its wisdom.

Pittman said he expected the committee to act Wednesday on the proposal for a loan to Finland, embodied in a resolution to limitation of $30,000,000 on single loans and prohibit loans for arms, ammunition or implements of war.

"There is no opposition in committee to the plan for calling Mr. Hull down to give us a picture of U. S.-Japanese relations," he said. "We don't want to make any moves so vitally affecting foreign policy as would the Japanese embargo measure, without first going over the whole situation with the secretary of State."

Kills Assailant Holding Gun at Son's Head

FATHER SHOOTS 'EXTORTIONER' FROM WINDOW

Ohio Farmer Fires Gun While Man, 33, Threatens Youth, 19; Inquest Held.

(By Associated Press)

PAULDING, O. — A modern "William Tell," 48-year-old Oscar Ball, was summoned to a coroner's inquest today to describe the slaying with a well-aimed rifle shot of a man holding a loaded pistol near the head of Ball's son and threatening to pull the trigger.

Ball, a farmer, told authorities that Louis Strake, 33, struck in the forehead with a 22 calibre rifle bullet fired 200 feet, menaced Ball's son, Richard, 19, in an effort to collect "blackmail" money, Police Chief Frank Wallar said.

Strake squeezed the trigger of his pistol as he slumped to the ground, but the shot was ineffective.

Young Ball said Strake and an unidentified man came to the Ball farm home near Oakwood Saturday while his parents were on a shopping trip, the pair forcing him to go to Defiance, 15 miles north of Oakwood.

Strake left his companion in Defiance and returned the boy to his home, threatening en route to "kill your father," Wallar quoted Richard Ball.

Standing beside the automobile in a barnyard near the house, Strake called to Oscar Ball to "come out."

The father stepped onto the porch, but receiving a warning from his son, dashed to an upstairs window from which he shot Strake while the assailant pointed his gun at the boy and threatened to shoot him unless Ball paid "plenty of money."

Neither Strake nor the boy, standing a yard apart, saw the father taking aim from the window, since they were watching for him to reappear on the porch.

"I kept pleading with him (Strake) not to shoot," young Ball told Wallar. "Suddenly I heard the crack of the rifle and saw him fall, firing his pistol at the same time."

Strake, a farm laborer of nearby Ney, had attempted several times to extort money from Ball, Wallar said.

ELECT OFFICERS

Muzzle Loaders' Club Holds Dinner at Crestline.

S. G. Bushman of Mansfield was elected president of the Mansfield Muzzle Loaders' Rifle club at the annual dinner and election Saturday night at the Railroad Y. M. C. A. in Crestline.

Other officers chosen are Thomas Kelser, Shelby, vice-president; Arthur Owens, Mansfield, secretary-treasurer; Harold Goetz, Mansfield, statistical secretary; Ernie Wagner, Mansfield, assistant statistical secretary; Harry Crumm, Mansfield, range officer, and H. Kinker, Mansfield, assistant range officer. Bushman succeeds Talmadge O. Nelson of Crestline as president.

Plans to affiliate with the national association, and to sponsor an open muzzle loader shoot at the gun club grounds in Mansfield, were made by the group. Motion pictures were shown by Bushman and C. I. Peaslee of Crestline. Twenty-five members, and guests from Crestline, Shelby and Mansfield attended.

REPORTS RISE IN CONTAGION

Rehder Tells Board There Were 29 Cases In County Last Month.

Contagious diseases in Richland county, exclusive of Mansfield and Shelby, showed a slight increase during December, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, told the county board of health at its meeting Saturday.

He said a total of 29 cases of contagion were reported to the health department last month as compared with 25 in November.

His report disclosed that there were 34 births recorded during the month and 31 deaths.

FAIR ENOUGH!

He Couldn't Read But Old Carolina Colored Pastor Was Certain of Hereafter

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—An old colored man died recently in a little village in South Carolina where I once visited his church and heard him preach. Mose Jenkins was about 90. He never had learned to read, and, anyway, in his later years he was almost blind. Nevertheless, he would open his Bible at random, blink his filmy eyes at the print, shoot his cuffs and preach.

He preached with serene faith that when he should die, almost any day now, he would rest in the arms of the blessed Lord Jesus Christ. He was almost literally a serf, because the little village in which he and his flock lived, the land on which they worked and the rickety little church house all were in the vast property of an individual owner who looked after their health, saw that they were fed and paid them a dollar a day whenever they cared to work.

They went with the land in a manner of speaking. The owner—or baron, as you might call him, could not deliver them over to his heirs or to a purchaser, but if the property should change hands in any way short of bankruptcy—which seemed most unlikely—there would be a writing which would guarantee that the colored people should not be set down beside the main road with their bundles but should be permitted to stay on in their cabins in the village hidden away in the interior of a private domain.

* * *

The owner sometimes took his friends to church services, at which they would sit quietly in a couple of pews at the rear, and the old preacher would call down a special blessing on the boss and his "guesses." The other colored people would loudly pray, "Yes, Blessed Lord," or assent with a longdrawn and fervent "Jee-sus!"

The white people would keep a respectful face during the preaching, singing and praying, but after the services their comment among themselves was condescending.

Not smirking, necessarily, but merry and superior, for, after all, old Mose was an illiterate who pretended to read when he didn't know how, and anyway, didn't have the eyes for it, and, moreover, he sometimes got things mixed up, as when he would put a finger on a page and invented reference to machine guns.

We were, indeed, superior creaturs, but the old reverend and the members of the congregation who were younger, but apparently just as sure of their belief, seemed no less happy than the whites.

* * *

The whites were people who spent their hours at work and worry and were never done with care and fear. Their religious beliefs were various, and, although it is impossible to look into any man's soul and see whether he is troubled it was as certain as anything can be that the old reverend was not. He had made arrangements for eternal joy and seemed to be absolutely satisfied with them and ready to meet any hour the death that came within a short time.

He was not in want of material necessities, but, of course, had none of the luxuries which to the white people were necessities. Taxes were no part of his problem, nor had he even heard of a war in Europe or a threat to civilization.

And, although the Reverend Mose did pretend to read when it was well known that he couldn't, and preached on that reading, that wasn't much different from the efforts of the superior whites to read events and to preach meanings into them. They would argue world economics without even knowing for sure whether gold was money or what money was now.

* * *

Huey Long and others have said that the southern negro in his cabin is happy in his ignorance and lack of responsibility. It is odd, therefore, that Huey and other southern people have worked so hard and spent so much to provide education for the whites, but I do not oppose their contention. It is always apparent that the more studious people are and the more alert to affairs in the world about them the less happy they are.

The Reverend Mose was the happiest individual in the domain to which he belonged, and the greatest scholar on earth could not have a more comfortable confidence in the hereafter.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Meet Ma Webster, folks.

Step right up and shake hands with the sweet old lady—but be ready to duck.

The old dear's a handy one with a gat, proving you can't always tell about sweet old ladies, even the grey-haired, white-lace-collar, black dress type.

Because you can't always tell—well, that's the reason Blanche Yurka is playing her. I didn't know, right away, that the nice grandmotherly type was Miss Yurka, the stage star. Ma Webster looked not a whit like Blanche Yurka, who is blond. But they said it was none other, and when she came off the set—after generally shooting things up — sure enough it was.

"I'm always having to learn something new," she said after greetings. "Never fired a gun in my life before. That was the way when I did Madame DeFarge in 'A Tale of Two Cities.' I had to knit. I had to knit without looking at the yarn or the kneedles. I was probably the only woman in the country who had never met a knitting needle. I took lessons. Every day from 9 to 5 for six weeks I sat and knitted . ."

* * *

MISS YURKA is making her second picture—"The Woman From Hell"—after four years off the screen. Her Madame DeFarge in the Dickens tale (1935) was a debut that rolled wide the contractual carpets, but Miss Yurka looked them over and stepped the other way—onto a New York-bound train. She didn't want to ruin the impression, she said after looking over promised roles. She alternated New York appearances with road tours as a "one-woman show," hitting towns big and little, in some of which a real, live actress was a complete novelty. The present picture is an interlude for she is still "on tour."

"I took it because the producer called up and asked me how I'd like to play a hellion. I said I'd be glad to if she were enough of a hellion. And so, here I am—Ma Webster, a killer and a mother of killers."

At that moment James Hogan, the director, needed Ma for some plain and fancy shooting. The G-Men were besieging her and her youngest boy (James Seay) in their apartment. The G-Men picked a bad time, because Ma and the boy were getting ready to throw a Christmas party for the neighborhood youngsters. Ma had a spot of the softie in her makeup, along with shrewdness, hardness, and cock-eyed ideas about how to get along in the world. So there was a Christmas tree, and the boy was donning his Santa Claus pants when shooting started.

* * *

MA YURKA grabbed two revolvers, one in each hand, and blasted through the window. The kid Seay grabbed his guns, too. Off-stage a couple of tommy-guns spat fire and thunder, and a guy worked a compressed air machine which made the curtains belly and hiss under the "fire" of the G-Men "outside." A prop-man pulled a wire and made the Christmas tree shimmy, and another pulled a wire which crashed a vase. Ma Yurka blasted on, without batting an eye.

"I started this yesterday," said Ma Yurka. "First time I'd ever shot a gun." She turned back to the scene, unflinching.

Did she take shooting-lessons? No. She had taken a couple of revolvers and a few rounds of ammunition and gone off into a corner and blazed away, all by herself, until she could do it and still keep her eyes open.

"I learned that from Ronald Coleman—keep your eyes open no matter what you're doing!" she said.

Lewis Flays Perkins for 'Failure to Help Jobless'

TELLS MINERS OF MOVES TO GET 'ACTION'

CIO Chief Describes Labor Secretary as 'Being Woozy in the Head.'

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—John L. Lewis, describing Secretary of Labor Perkins as being "woozy in the head," today expressed contempt for persons "who refuse to raise their hands to relieve the distress of the jobless."

The UMW president, addressing the United Mine Workers convention, recalled that he had made repeated efforts to get Secretary Perkins and President Roosevelt to call a conference of labor, business and government officials to study unemployment problems.

Two weeks ago, Lewis said, he sent four labor men to discuss the situation with Miss Perkins, but that she told them she did not think the problem was serious and to give the Democratic party time and everything would be worked out.

"After three hours they went away woozy in the head just like the good woman who is secretary of labor," Lewis asserted.

"I have only contempt for the opposition of those who refuse to raise their hands to relieve the distress of the jobless," he continued.

Lewis said President Roosevelt four years ago told him and business leaders the unemployment problem was "interesting" and asked them for a memorandum on it. Nothing further has been done, Lewis declared

Concerning Miss Perkins, Lewis said·

"I like her a lot I think she would make a good housekeeper, but I don't think she knows any more about the economic problems of this country than a hottentot does about the moral law."

Adopt Conference Plan.

Lewis and his first assistant, Philip Murray, who said that unless unemployment was solved "uprisings might develop from people seeking a right to live," spoke for a resolution urging a government-sponsored conference on the problem.

Delegates adopted the resolution unanimously after giving Lewis a tremendous ovation. He concluded with the assertion that "I'm not going to take these things lying down as long as you're with me."

Lewis asked why the politicians had not answered his demands for a conference

"Some gentleman may tell you that his favorite politician is a great friend of labor and is lying awake nights worrying about the problems of Europe and Asia," Lewis continued.

"But," he shouted, "that doesn't put my men to work in the coal mines."

Lewis did not identify the "gentleman."

Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers' union and chairman of the Steel Workers' Organizing committee, asserted:

"The federal administration in Washington has evidenced no desire to cure unemployment. x x x in Pennsylvania, which has 10 million citizens, one million are idle, and they represent three million people."

URGE CHANGE IN RELIEF SET-UP

Township Officials Ask Return of Administration as Ohio Convention Closes.

Return of the administration of relief to the township trustees and elimination of the present requirement for a pre-audit of relief expenditures were requested by Ohio township officials at their annual convention which closed Saturday in Columbus.

A delegation of Richland county trustees and clerks and a number of county officials attended the sessions.

The requests for a change in the relief set-up were included in a resolution passed by the Ohio State Association of Township Trustees and Clerks. The resolution will be submitted to the state legislature. The township officials also asked that the state continue to provide funds for relief.

A new state law which became effective last July placed the relief administration in the hands of county commissioners and required them to finance a pre-audit of relief expenditures on which to base state allocations of funds

The township officials said they desired the change "in the interests of poor relief clients and economy."

ASKS DAMAGES

Cleaning Firm Files Cross Claim in Traffic Mishap.

West's Universal Dry Cleaning, Inc., Mansfield, today sought $265 damages from Russell McNeely, Mansfield, in a cross-petition filed in comon pleas court

The dry cleaning establishment previously was named defendant in a suit for $488 filed by McNeely, driver of a truck which collided with one owned by the West firm.

Francis Leemaster of Shelby, driver for the dry cleaning establishment, was seriously injured in the crash which occurred last Nov. 24 on route 39 near Springmill. He is still in General hospital.

In its answer and cross-petition to McNeely's action, the defendant firm denies responsibility for the crash and contends that McNeely was driving too far over on the left side of the highway to avoid the accident. Both actions seek judgments for damage to the trucks.

URGE SCHABER FOR GOVERNOR

Bucyrus Dems Want Former Utilities Chairman to Be Candidate.

BUCYRUS—That the Democratic central and executive committees would give their unanimous endorsement to Judge Charles F. Schaber should he become a candidate for governor of Ohio, was the concensus of opinion expressed at a meeting of both groups

Members urged the Bucyrus man, who retired last year after serving several years as chairman of the state public utilities commission, to announce his candidacy.

Members also discussed certain criticism reportedly heard in regard to the retention by Mayor William Whiteamire of certain Republican employes of the waterworks department but no action was taken by the groups In reply to the criticism Mayor Whiteamire replied that the city deserves first consideration and no changes would be made at this time in the department

1,200 at Services Marking Church's 50th Anniversary

More than 1,200 past and present members of the Mayflower Congregational church attended services yesterday marking the 50th anniversary of the founding of the congregation

Opening with a Sunday school service, the day's program included morning and evening worship service, a covered dish dinner at noon, an organ recital in the afternoon and an evening song service.

Three former pastors and four Sunday school superintendents returned to take part in the anniversary program. Addresses during the morning service were given by Rev. David G. Blair of California, and Rev. T. D. Henshaw of Chagrin Falls. Assisting in the service were Rev. LeRoy Coffey, supply pastor, and Rev. J. W. Overmeyer of Lucas, a former supply pastor.

Rev Wellington L Leininger of Cleveland, another former pastor, delivered the sermon at the evening service, during which the history of the church was read Music during the dinner program at noon included a violin solo by Eleanor Walters, and a vocal solo by Mrs Alvin H Fankhauser. The afternoon organ recital was presented by Mrs Giles Hamilton, church organist.

Mrs. Carl Stough was general chairman of the anniversary celebration, and Mrs. A. L. Adams headed the program committee.

BEWARE NOW OF EPIDEMIC COLDS!

Here's Some Good Time-Tested Advice

With folks all around suffering with contagious colds, be just as careful as you can—and you may avoid a lot of sickness, trouble and worry.

Follow these simple rules of health: Live normally. Avoid excesses. Eat simple food. Drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular. Beware of wet feet and drafts. Take some exercise daily—preferably outdoors. Get plenty of rest and sleep.

Then use these two time-tested treatments when needed.

AT THE FIRST SIGN OF A SNIFFLE, SNEEZE OR NASAL IRRITATION... put a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril right away. This helps to prevent many colds from developing, because Va-tro-nol is expressly designed to help Nature's own defenses against colds. (If a head cold causes stuffiness, you'll find that a few drops of Va-tro-nol helps clear the clogging mucus and makes breathing freer and easier.)

IF A CHEST COLD OR COUGHING COLD DEVELOPS (some colds get by all precautions) depend on Vicks VapoRub to relieve miseries. Rub VapoRub on throat, chest and back and cover with a warmed cloth. VapoRub acts to bring relief 2 ways at once. It stimulates surface of chest and back like a warming poultice. At the same time it releases helpful medicinal vapors that are breathed direct into the irritated air passages.

Both Va-tro-nol and VapoRub have been tested through years of use in millions of homes. When you use these two medicines you are not experimenting, you are not taking needless chances. Remember: If the condition of the cold fails to respond quickly to treatment—or if more serious trouble is indicated—call your family physician right away. In the meantime be prepared! Get a bottle of Vicks Va-tro-nol and a jar of Vicks VapoRub today.

HEARING SET

High Court to Review Motion in Tax Suit Feb. 16.

The Ohio Supreme court today had set Feb 16 for a hearing on the motion of Michael Hallabrin, Mansfield taxpayer, to set aside a restraining order enjoining County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe from assessing personal taxes alleged due from the estate of the late Frank B Black, Mansfield.

An order halting proposed assessment and collections of the taxes was issued three weeks ago by the supreme court on an appeal filed by counsel for the Black estate.

Attys. Joseph A. Bayer Mansfield, and Hart, McHenry, and Jones of Canton, counsel for Hallabrin, filed the motion to set aside the injunction against collection of the taxes

The Fifth district appeals court had ordered the assessment by the county auditor in Hallabrin's taxpayer's suit.

Hallabrin's action charged that a tax amendment which later was declared unconstitutional permitted Mr. Black to escape payment of certain personal taxes from 1926 to 1932

COSTLY RIDES

Drivers Jailed, Train Wrecks Empty Car in Morrow County.

MARION—(AP)—Two drivers of the same automobile were arrested for drunkenness and a train put the finishing touches on the case by wrecking their empty car.

Marshal David Pace of Caledonia first arrested Harold Levengood, 28, and took him to jail. Then Charles Hawkins, 28, Levengood's companion, stalled the automobile on a railroad crossing. Pace took Hawkins to safety, but was unable to get the car off the tracks before a train came along.

The two Delaware men were fined $100 and costs and deprived of their driving rights for six months in municipal court today on charges of driving while intoxicated.

CO-OP STORES OF CALIFORNIA WIDEN RELIEF

Selected Jobless Groups to Buy and Share in Profits of Organization.

(By United Press)

SACRAMENTO, Cal—Relief clients are "proprietors" of their own cooperative store in a new experiment sponsored by the state administration to remove unemployed persons from relief rolls and put them to work on self-help projects

For the initial unit in Gov. Culbert Olsen's production-for-use program, 500 persons in Los Angeles were selected to become profit sharing customers of the cooperative.

The store will charge prices similar to those prevailing in the neighborhood, but all purchases will be recorded in books carried by the relief clients and profits will be apportioned among the group on the basis of the amount of purchases.

Approximately 50 per cent of the items placed on sale were supplied by "producer cooperatives" of the state relief administration through which many on relief have been put to work to earn their state aid checks.

Cash Sales Decreed.

The retail outlet will sell such items as fresh meats, fresh fruit and vegetables, milk, butter eggs and staple groceries Terms will be strictly cash, with money obtained by the relief clients from their semi-monthly state checks.

Meanwhile, in an entirely separate program, the state administration has set about to dispose of milk surpluses by sale to the needy at lower prices

In an experiment covering Sacramento county, the relief administration issued coupon books entitling clients of the SRA, the WPA and the local community chest to purchase milk for 7 cents a quart—3 cents less than the prevailing price at stores.

Department of Agriculture officials who administer the state's milk control laws said the two-price system would be extended throughout the state if it is successful in the experimental area.

Like Stamp Plan.

The milk program is molded along the general lines of the federal government's stamp plan of surplus commodity distribution now in operation in California, but is administered separately.

The administration's production-for-use plan is being carried out along lines drafted by a special commission on reemployment appointed by the governor and headed by John H. Richards, Los Angeles investment banker who has since been appointed state director of finance.

The commission recommended that all employable persons who cannot find jobs be offered the opportunity to work cooperatively to provide for their own needs.

"A program to supplement and complement, not to scrap our present economy, is necessary," the commission reported "Many who are now on the cash dole were once employed Their reemployment in projects to supply their own needs should work no difficulties in a general economy that once used them."

TRUCK IN MISHAP

GALION—A large Commercial Freight truck tore a sign from the building occupied by the Sam Valsamides Tailoring shop at 230 Harding Way, early Saturday morning, causing the sign to crash into the plate glass window of the store.

'Vendol' Relieved Backache For Mansfield Housewife

Describes how she improved so fast. Says it relieved constipation and acted as a diuretic to kidneys.

Older persons are not the only ones who suffer from sharp, aching pains in the back, arms, and limbs. Younger ones also have it, though it does seem to bother those over forty most, because if their suffering is due to constipation or need of a diuretic to the kidneys, age is not to be blamed

Mrs Frank Faugl, of 307 3rd Ave., Mansfield, whose husband is proprietor of the popular Barber Shop at that address, described her experience to the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store as follows: "I was suffering almost constantly from constipation, and my kidneys needed a mild diuretic action and these troubles caused a lot of distress from backache, pains in my arms shoulders, and legs, and also kept my stomach in an upset and disagreeable condition.

"This upset stomach condition took the form of sourness, gas, bloated, feeling, cramps, acid risings, and "heartburn" Different foods I used to enjoy seemed to turn against me so I had to quit eating them.

"So many people spoke highly of Vendol, and some described their suffering like mine, that I began taking it along with the little Vendol laxative tablets, and this splendid medicine gave marvelous relief First I noticed my constipation was relieved then the diuretic action on my kidneys and it wasn't long till I realized the

backache and other pains no longer bothered me

"This relief from constipation did another thing, and that was to relieve the upset stomach condition, and now I eat hearty meals, but never have any sourness, gas, cramps, nor that fullness or choking sensation after eating.

"I'm feeling grand now since taking Vendol, and am so highly pleased with it that I am glad to recommend it to others whenever I have a chance"

If you who read this, are suffering from the same troubles due to the same causes described here, and will come to Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & 4th Sts., ask for me, the Vendol Man, and I will explain all about my great medicine which is made mostly from extracts of Roots and Herbs, and tell you honestly if I believe it will help you. Samples are free. Most all leading druggists sell Vendol.

WORK TO REPAIR FIRE HYDRANTS, 2 WATER LINES

City workmen today were engaged in the repair of three fire hydrants found frozen over the week-end by fire department inspectors.

Fire Chief Charles J Seeburger said two of the outlets would have to be repaired, and that the third, an old type would have to be replaced.

Those which were being repaired, he said, are located at South Main and Wolfe street, and at the Madison township high school on Ashland road. The hydrant which is being replaced is at South Mulberry and Arch streets.

James E. Warrack, superintendent of the waterworks said department employes worked until 10 p. m yesterday repairing two breaks in the mains caused by the cold weather.

He said a section of a six-inch line on North Adams street, north of Park avenue east, and a 10-inch section of pipe on Dickson parkway, near Bigelow road were replaced.

The crew which worked for 44 continuous hours Saturday and Sunday were supplied with hot coffee and sandwiches yesterday afternoon by the Richland county chapter of the American Red Cross

Red Cross officials said they sent the food to the workers when they were informed by Mayor William J Locke of the emergency work being done.

2 DRAW FINES

BUCYRUS—Two Crawford county men were fined for drunken driving Saturday.

In the court of Mayor William Whiteamire, John B Mann of Crestline was fined $100 and costs and was placed in the county jail to work out the fine when he was unable to pay

Jerome Brown of Oceola was given a similar fine in a Seneca county court and placed in the county jail until payment could be made.

REVEALS ALLIES' WAR PURCHASES HIT 100 MILLION

Treasury Department Report Shows Money Paid Mostly for Airplanes.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Great Britain and France paid American manufacturers more than $100,000,000 in "down" and "progress" payments on war materials—chiefly airplanes—in October and early November, treasury and commerce department sources disclosed today.

Orders for warplanes represented about 75 per cent of the total involved in the payments, with machine tools and metals comprising most of the remainder, commerce officials said.

The treasury's monthly bulletin for October, released today, revealed that the allies obtained American dollars to make the payments—the "cash" half of the neutrality act's "cash and carry" twins—mainly by selling American securities they own and drawing on their bank balances in this country.

During October, the British disposed of $47,971,000 worth of American securities, nearly double their sales of September—the first month of the war—and took $39,983,000 "out of the bank," for a total of $87,954,000.

France, during the same month, sold only $461,000 worth of securities, but reduced its bank deposits $38,417,000. In all, the two nations got together $120,981,000 in U. S. dollars during the month.

At least 100,000,000 of these dollars were handed over to American manufacturers, commerce officials said. A sizable chunk reportedly went to the Lockheed, Douglas and Consolidated aircraft corporations, all of which are building fight planes for Britain and France.

Most of these planes will be ready for delivery in March or April, so France and Britain in some cases were paying final instalments. It was learned that the allies' practice has been to make a substantial cash "down" payment, this payment often including an outright donation for plant expansion, and then to make "progress" payments until the aircraft, or other articles, are paid for.

The commerce officials said there have been some rather heavy "hidden payments" made in the case of airplane instruments, such as compasses and automatic pilots, commodities which are expensive but which can be purchased and exported virtually unnoticed, because no export licenses are necessary. Export of airplanes themselves must be licensed by the government.

These same officials asserted that estimates saying the allies have from 4,000 to 8,000 planes on order in this country are too high, and that the number actually is under the lower figure. Even so, the dollar volume of orders is around $200,000,000, they said.

MANSFIELD MUNICIPAL AIRPORT

Mansfield News-Journal
AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, JANUARY 29, 1940.

If you have any secrets, prepare to reveal them when the census-taker comes around.

Income tax returns disclose that this country's top salary goes to a soap maker—indicating a nice clean profit instead of being all washed up.

That forty-five billion dollar debt limit seems to be another relic of horse-and-buggy days which must be adjusted to fit the New Deal spending spree.

First Day In New Schools

MANSFIELD children in the 12 to 15 age range have had an interesting experience today—and one they will remember longer than they may now realize.

Going into a spic and span new school building is an event that only a small percentage of children are privileged to enjoy and while John Simpson and Johnny Appleseed Junior high schools are not yet entirely finished they have reached a stage at which it is possible to hold regular sessions in them—and, for observant children, there will be added satisfaction in watching completion of the buildings, and beautifying of the surroundings.

As with other phases of community progress, older residents of Mansfield—and especially those who attended the public schools here—regard with pleasure, and something of awe, the marked improvement that has been made in housing this city's school system within the past fifteen years, recalling that as late as 1926 the old building at the corner of Fourth and Bowman streets served as Senior high school.

Whatever else 1940 may have in store for Mansfield and its people, it is quite obvious that this year is bringing to children of the city the most adequate educational facilities ever provided here, an achievement of which the community may feel justly proud.

Now, if in other ways, Mansfield can be made a better, safer city for these children to grow into manhood and womanhood, there will be even greater cause for pride in worthy accomplishment.

Two Kinds of Payments to Aged

STARTING this month two types of payments to aged are being made in Ohio and T. W. McCaw, chief of the Ohio division of aid for the aged, directs attention to a difference that is not always considered.

It is a distinction that should be recognized by both the beneficiaries and the public at large. Otherwise, there may be confusion when any phase of the subject is discussed.

Federal old age and survivor's insurance benefits are being paid for the first time this month, in addition to the assistance granted by the state division of aid for the aged.

When an aged worker obtains old age insurance benefits from the federal government, he is receiving money which is his as a matter of right because he has paid social security assessments which are, in effect, insurance premiums. These benefits are paid to an aged worker when he retires whether he needs the money or not, and therefore the benefits might rightly be called "pensions."

On the other hand, in the administration of old age assistance it is necessary that the need of the applicant be established before he can receive this assistance and the amount of assistance he receives is based on determination of need. This is not an "old age pension," says Mr. McCaw, although this term has been roughly applied to it. It is "old age assistance" or "aid for the aged," he says in asking newspapers of the state to use these expressions.

Keeping Down War Costs

THAT European conflict is, as many Americans have noticed, a very strange war. On land there is no fighting to speak of, outside of Finland, and even on the sea there is less activity than might be expected.

"No one in Europe except for a few professional soldiers," explains a former German economist now living in America, "regards the war as important. They're thinking about what will happen afterward. Everybody's trying to keep down expenses. It is a poor man's war; no one wants to risk either men or materials. They're afraid of further impoverishment, completely reversing their attitude in the last war. For this reason there will be no substantial purchases here."

That helps to explain why American industry, except for airplanes, is producing so little war stuff. The belligerent powers, and also the threatened countries, want to get through this business as cheaply as possible, so they'll have some resources to go ahead with when it's over.

Foreign Trade Exhibits

THE JAPANESE, it is reported, hold trade exhibitions in their principal cities to display foreign products. The idea is not to induce the Japanese people to buy foreign goods, but to show native manufacturers and exporters what they must compete with.

The Japanese are quick to learn and they frequently pick up from these shows ideas about improving their own products as well as hints of new fields they might enter. They learn what foreign buyers like.

Americans might hesitate to set up such exhibits for fear of advertising foreign goods. Or they might feel that their own products were already so superior that they could not be improved even to meet foreign requirements. In these days when we are earnestly studying ways of increasing our export trade, such a study of the other countries' products and desires might be beneficial.

Superstitious Americans

DR. BENJAMIN CARTWRIGHT of the University of Oklahoma, who has been making a study of superstitions held in the United States, has a collection of 10,000 of them.

They can't all be blamed on the foreign born, the uneducated, the colored folks of the South, or any other group in our population. Business men and society hostesses have their pet superstitions like anybody else.

Dr. Cartwright has a good word to say for the superstitions themselves. Many of them originated as a means of teaching good morals, good manners or neatness. Then the teaching and the picturesque method of putting it across became separated and a more or less quaint superstition remained.

It would be too bad to forget all superstitions. Many of them are rich in folk lore and experience. But it's just as well to look 'em in the eye, see how they grew, what they mean, and how little peril they hold for anybody.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Three naturalized citizens, accused with others of a plot to overthrow the United States government, cannot be deported even if proved guilty.

The three, two Irish and one German in origin, were rounded up in New York by J. Edgar Hoover and his G-men amid a fanfare of publicity almost as fantastic as the nature of the plot against the government of which the 17 were accused.

The moment an alien completes his citizenship ceremony, he becomes forever immune to deportation except on one condition. Only if it is proved he obtained his citizenship papers by fraud or deceit can he be deported, no matter how undesirable a citizen he may turn out to be.

The 17 men, including the three naturalized citizens, had an array of cans full of powder, rifles, ammunition, machine-gun belts and various impedimenta which together with other information convinced G-man Hoover that they had in mind a plot so gigantic that it made ordinary revolutions look pale.

As a prelude to seizing the government, they planned to blow up communication lines, said Hoover, to capture arsenals, to knock off a dozen congressmen as a sample of what they might do if they really got going. Morover, said Hoover, they were mad at a neighborhood theater which showed Russian-made films and were going to blow it up along with a Jewish newspaper.

* * *

The Bridges Case.

TO A casual spectator it would appear that the main objective of becoming an American citizen would be to enjoy the sort of government and opportunities that America offers. Yet there is no provision in the law which states that a naturalized citizen may be chucked back home if he tries to wreck the government he was presumably so desirous of enjoying.

It is pretty well established that an alien applicant for citizenship will be rejected if he has indicated a disposition to overthrow the United States government by force. Belonging to the Russian branch of the Communist party likely would be enough to bar a candidate for citizenship. That, at least, was the test which Harry Bridges, west coast waterfront labor leader, had to pass to escape deportation proceedings. Lately Dean Landis of Harvard Law school, sitting as examiner, cleared him of that charge. Presumably he may now renew his suit to become a citizen.

* * *

May Take Away Rights.

YET along comes J. Edgar Hoover and turns up a trio of naturalized citizens to whom no such test can now be applied. They can be jailed if convicted of conspiring to use violence against the government. But the far more powerful menace of a possible deportation could not act as a restraining influence.

Naturalized citizens can plot and intrigue to their heart's content to upset the government they pledged themselves to support without jeopardizing their residence here. Like any native-born Yankee, they can be deprived of rights of citizenship for felonies, but not deported.

We have listened for a half-dozen years to vitriolic outpourings in congress against the most law-abiding aliens who happened to be here with the most peaceable intent, but not even Senator Reynolds of North Carolina, most rabid alien-baiter, has reached out to suggest an amendment to the law to crack down on the lads from across the sea who go sour on the government after ducking into the safety zone.

THE FLOWER OF CIVILIZATION

Timely Editorial

Divided They Stand.

Rated as news, John L. Lewis' attack on President Roosevelt outclasses the classic man-bites-dog story by several bites.

There is nobody who does not know that Lewis owes nine-tenths of his present, not unenviable position to the President's New Deal.

He truthfully could sing to F. D. R., in the words of the old song, "You made me what I am today."

But apparently John L. is not satisfied, even if the president is, with the results.

Lewis has said his purpose in the Columbus speech was to jar politicians in both parties out of the attitude of "taking union labor for granted." He certainly did just that. At least no politician will be warmly disposed henceforth to take John Lewis for granted.

However, admitting that the jarring was eminently successful as jarring, that still leaves unexplained the purpose of it.

Time will tell, of course, but in the meantime the country would like to hear from Mr. Lewis a little more explicitly regarding his intentions.—Detroit News.

Listen, World!

You've Got To Know What You Want!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU want Life. Lots of Life. You're always peeving because you don't get enough of it. Wondering how you can get more. And asking people and reading books.

Well, you'll get lots of answers, stranger. But if you really want to make a success of living, there is just one fact you must face—you've got to know what you want.

You can go practically anywhere in life—do almost anything you wish—

BUT YOU'VE GOT TO KNOW WHAT YOU WANT BEFORE YOU START.

There's just one thing that Life and your fellow men can't and won't do for you, and that is, make up your mind. This seems a simple and reasonable statement when set down in cold print. Yet most of us spend all our days bucking it. We're always expecting the Other Fellow to shape our program for us. Or waiting for Lady Luck to hand it to us on a silver platter. Or even nagging God for directions.

I don't know much about God, partner, but I've seen plenty of Life. And I'm telling you that if you can't do your own picking you're just out of luck. Life has no use for sissies. Or cry babies. Or gimme-gimme kids. Life will give you what you want and when you ask for it, and not until.

If you can make up your mind what you want—whether it be peace or power, freedom or protection, opportunity, adventure or quiet reflection . . . when you can make up your mind what you want and are willing to back the desire with all you have, then you'll get it.

And this applies to every man and every woman in every circumstance. To heckled husbands and worried wives. To men out of jobs. And men in jobs that don't fit their stature. To all people who are sorry for themselves and feel somebody should do something for them.

There is somebody who should do something about you, but that somebody is YOURSELF.

Make up your mind as to what you want. This is your right — your most sacred right. You were not born into this world to be ground beneath anyone's heel and you won't be if you have the spunk.

Make up your mind what you want. There's nothing criminal about that . . . nothing cruel. It is not only your right but your duty. You were put here to do something—be something. Well, what's holding you?

Only yourself . . . only your own sniveling indecision.

"But the human race is still savage," you say; "every man grabbing for every other man's throat. A poor man hasn't a chance."

Are you telling me! I was as poor as you can ever be—as ignorant—as hurt and likewise as full of blubbering self-pity. But biggolly! I made up my mind and I crashed the gate—

AND SO CAN YOU!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — If a man in a gray double-breasted suit and a soft snap-brim felt hat points his finger at you and says, "What foul business are you up to now, you double-crossing Spaniard?" that man will be Dick Maney. If you are sitting in a crowd or walking along a street in New York and hear a deep-throated chuckle that rumbles out of nowhere like a suddenly released subterranean freshet, it will be Dick Maney. If you ever read a short story by Ben Hecht called "The Mystery of the Fabulous Laundryman" and wonder who the guy Richard McCarey is patterned after, the answer is Dick Maney.

Of all the characters along that fabulous street of the Irish and the Jews, Broadway, Maney is the most unusual. He is a press-agent. He makes and spends lots of money. As far back as 1932 Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur were building around his personality a character for their sulphurous, slangy, witty comedy, "Twentieth Century." He is the man who paved the way for Billy Rose's great success, and it was Maney who supplied the rhetoric for many of the Rose sayings that made so many people laugh and earned so much priceless space in the newspapers around the country. Example: after becoming famous as a producer of gigantic spectacles (Jumbo, Frontier Fiesta, etc.) Rose was asked, "What are you going to do next?" Billy's answer, supplied by Maney, was, "I'm gonna take one of those small Balkan Wars on tour."

* * *

NOBODY in all the world talks like Maney and only one man looks like him—George M. Cohan. Usually in a good humor, he can become very hard-boiled and two-fisted. He can cut you down by just looking at you. He laughs a great deal, and his conversation invariably is a staccato of epithets. For instance, if he finds you having dinner in a restaurant, he is apt to walk over to your table and growl, "What are you doing in this foul fish trap?" although the restaurant may be the Ritz or one of the best in town. The word foul is his favorite adjective.

I will never forget the night Maney and I were sitting in the lobby of the Texas hotel, in Fort Worth. It was about 2 a. m., and we were waiting for a car to take us to the airport. Suddenly Maney swung around. "Would you like to see me roll around on this foul floor awhile," he inquired, "and maybe moan a little?"

* * *

I SAID, sure, never taking him seriously. Without further delay this 47-year-old Irishman who was born in Chinook, Montana, got down on the lobby floor. He uttered a wild, piteous moan. He began threshing about after the manner of a beheaded rooster, groaning and flapping his arms. The night clerk was horrified. The guests were terrified. By a great Godsend the car arrived at this moment and we were able to get away, or else this story of Richard the Maney might at this point have to take on the episode of an interlude in a Texas jail.

A great many of the more interesting episodes in Maney's Broadway career were detailed in a recent article in Time, and if you haven't read it, you should. All are funny, but the one that explains Maney best perhaps has to do with a play by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur that opened on Broadway and failed. After reading the "death" notices in the papers which the critics wrote next morning, and at Maney's suggestion, Hecht and MacArthur retired to an undertaker's, climbed into separate coffins and lay in state.

That is Dick Maney.

Bevy of Quail

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

A BEVY of quail have cautiously and timidly found their way into our barnyard and under the overshoot of the bank barn, where I throw corn for the chickens in late afternoon.

At first they remained under cover of dead weeds until I had gone to do the other chores. But this evening when I called the hens I heard a movement in a thick mat of snow-crusted weeds and some low wild calls. I peeped through a crack from inside the barn and counted sixteen full grown quail eating supper with the chickens.

The flock seemed hungry and swallowed the large grains of corn with slight difficulty. Among the contented hens they seemed less nervous. They drank no water but when the meal was finished I saw a number stick their beaks into the snow and move them back and forth, then rise on tiptoe, stretch, flap their wings and preen their feathers. They seemed satisfied and very businesslike about attending to their own bodily needs.

I listened to the constant chatter of their little voices as they disappeared again into the weeds from which I had seen them come. I knew they would spend the night not far away, and watched to discover their sleeping place. Through the early twilight I saw the small dusky figures gather into a circle at the base of three burdock stalks. First five small heads pointed outward from the center, the tails meeting at a common point. Their fluffy bodies were crouched low upon the thin covering of snow. Two more came cautiously and took their places in the outer edge, then two more. Two came who must have had more need for warmth for they tried to elbow in between. When this could not be done they climbed on top and slowly edged down between their sleepy companions.

About ten that night I stepped out on the porch. I heard the barking of a hunting hound, and then the sudden whir of many wings. I knew a dog had found the quail but hoped they had escaped. At midnight, from my bed, I heard a plaintive call and answering murmurs. They were re-gathering for sleep. When morning came I walked out to the place I saw them first. Feathers were scattered ruthlessly about and stains of blood were on the snow. Only a ring of packed snow with a tidy pile of droppings in the center told where the quail had bivouacked.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Internal revenue agents are certainly going into Paul McNutt's income tax with a fine-tooth comb. They turned up at American Legion headquarters not long ago and got photostats of the checks which McNutt had received as commander of the American Legion, including expenses and all other payments.

The agents also turned up at the bank where McNutt keeps a safe deposit box, with a subpoena for its contents. To open the box required two keys, one being with the cashier, the other being with McNutt, so the agents were frustrated.

However, one of McNutt's political aides volunteered to get the other key, and it is understood that most of McNutt's personal papers now are in the hands of internal revenue agents.

McNutt has said that he welcomes the inquiry and has no facts to conceal. He also has said that while governor of Indiana he filed no income tax return since state salaries then were not taxable by the federal government.

What federal agents seem to be interested in, however, is other income received by McNutt.

Note—McNutt's income tax investigation started when the treasury probed the income tax of his former secretary, Pleas Greenlee. Since then, the treasury has been using some of the information obtained from Greenlee to probe the taxes of the entire McNutt machine.

Political Go-Round.

AND still the presidential candidates come. Latest to toss his hat in the ring is kindly Speaker William Bankhead, who will soon open headquarters in Washington. Ostensibly after the presidential nomination, actually the Alabaman is shooting for second place. . . . Latest claim made by McNutt lieutenants is that AFL President William Green told the Indiana white hope he was for him. CIO's John L. Lewis has black-listed McNutt. . . . Word that midwestern GOP leaders would attend the Kansas day dinner in Topeka today to look over House Floor Leader Joe Martin, chief speaker of the occasion, caused a flurry in the Dewey camp. Russell Sprague, the young New Yorker's manager, hurriedly decided to attend. . . . David E. Ward, young south Florida state senator, is being urged to run against U. S. Senator Charles Andrews, elderly Townsendite and administration critic.

British War Purchases.

THERE is far more significance behind Britain's curtailment of American tobacco, cotton and fruit purchases than meets the eye. In fact, this may be one of the most serious factors upsetting American economy and in the end perhaps, tending to pull this country into the war.

To get the complete picture, it is necessary to understand the British and French economic strategy. It is complicated, but important.

First, the Allies are now planning to buy 10,000 new airplanes in the United States. This is in addition to the planes already ordered. The new planes (as well as the old) will cost an average of $100,000 each, making a total airplane bill for new planes alone of one billion dollars.

Second, under the Neutrality Act, this bill must be paid in cash. And when the French and British pay for other supplies already ordered in this country, one billion more dollars just about exhausts their ready cash.

Third, having no more ready cash, the Allies must curtail other purchases in the United States. Secretly this is a matter of vigorous debate between some of the French and British purchasing agents in this country. The British, at first, wanted to save some of their money for cotton, oil, steel and other basic raw materials. The French favored putting everything into airplanes. In the end the French prevailed. Airplanes will be placed ahead of everything else.

Fourth, this means (a) that the Allies not only will cut other expenditures to the bone, but (b) they will seek to secure cash in other markets. This fact explains why Cordell Hull's trade treaties haven't the ghost of a chance of succeeding while the war continues.

Argentine Trade Failure.

MOST people don't realize it, but the British were largely behind the failure of Hull's Argentine treaty negotiations—that is, the British plus the war.

Britain is Argentina's greatest customer. She buys Argentine wheat, and above all, meat, in such vast quantities that Argentina usually has a lush cash balance with which she can buy American radios, automobiles and office machinery. Since the war, the British have clamped down on this triangular trade. They demand that Argentina save her cash balances to buy British goods.

In other words, Britain, forced to pay cash for American goods under the Neutrality Act, is not going to let one farthing of trade get to the United States if she can divert it to Britain.

This also is true of France, and true of trade not merely with Argentina, but with every country with which the Allies trade. Faced with a gigantic war bill, they have adopted Hitler's system of hard-boiled, cut-throat barter, which means that trade treaties are valueless, and that American trade to neutrals is not going to blossom as in the last war.

Poor U. S. Farmers.

U. S. EXPORT TRADE, however, means almost nothing compared with sound economy at home. And this is where the British policy is likely to raise real havoc.

The main burden of Roosevelt's New Deal policy has been a more equitable distribution of wealth. Thus the AAA crop benefit payments were aimed to balance up the low income of the farmer.

Now, however, the war, plus the British, plus the cash requirement of the Neutrality Act, are almost sure to get this balance further out of line. Thousands of tobacco farmers earning, in some localities, an average of about $400 a year, now cannot sell their crops at all. Hundreds of thousands of cotton farmers, with incomes not much greater, must also see exports curtailed to their biggest customer. The same with apples, perhaps later with other farm exports.

Meanwhile, British millions ordinarily spread out among thousands of farmers, will be concentrated in a half dozen airplane factories. Airplane stocks already have zoomed. Airplane dividends will be fat and juicy. But large blocs of the population, especially in the South, will feel the pinch.

And if this economic pinch is severe enough, it may bring an overpowering demand that congress scrap the cash-and-carry provisions of the Neutrality Act, and permit credits to the Allies. For it has been the unfailing experience of this country—and of every other, for that matter—that foreign policy is guided by the pocket-book.
